Artist Development: A Long Term Proposition

The recording industry of 1977 reflects variant philosophies regarding the successful operation of a record manufacturing company. One prevalent theory is to sign and produce a large quantity of artists, using a form of merchandising roulette to score a hit. Due to the resulting number of albums, promotional support is often restricted to the proven label money-makers.

Another philosophy is to maintain a small number of artists, selectively chosen, and push hard for their respective products.

Regardless of the approach taken, the key for the manufacturer should be to "stick it out" with the performer on a long-range commitment.

Today, it costs roughly $50-75,000 to produce an album for a new artist. Established acts can spend as much as $300,000 and even higher for their studio time. Add expenses for publicity, touring, public relations and other miscellaneous, but necessary concerns and the label's financial commitment continues to increase on each released product. While the cost side of the ledger may climb, the potential profit to be made far exceeds the initial expenses, therefore serving the purpose for the time and effort in the first place.

But, if a manufacturer is willing to gamble on investing in an act in the first place, the attitude should be more far-sighted than to demand an immediate return on investment. If manufacturers limited their gamble to one or two albums, where would such "profitable" performers like Fleetwood Mac, Peter Frampton, Boz Scaggs and the Atlanta Rhythm Section be today? It took literally years for these artists to "break," and now these artists' earlier products are finally showing the sales patterns they should have had initially.

The factors in producing a successful and profitable artist are varied and obscure. Sometimes, it only takes a consideration like time before the public responds.

The manufacturers most valuable assets may be sitting on a shelf, forgotten for now, but ironically, a money-maker in the near future.

Tyrone Davis. The closer, the better.

Tyrone Davis' new album, "Let's Be Closer Together," makes it easy to gather round and get together. It's a brilliant mix of up-tempo, disco and soulful ballads from the man who brought you "Give It Up (Turn It Loose)" and "Close to You" from his first Columbia album, "Love and Touch."

"Let's Be Closer Together" is Tyrone Davis' distinctive vocal style plus a batch of great new songs like "All You Got," "If That's What It Takes" and the title song, "Let's Be Closer Together." Get yourself the new Tyrone Davis album and you're on your way to getting it all together.

A&M And Lifesong Change Distributors In Two Markets

Western Merchandisers May Enter Denver

by Gary Cohen

LOS ANGELES — A&M Records has pulled its line from Best & Gold Distributors in Buffalo, and given the upstate territory to Alpha Distributing, based in New York. The change is effective May 27.

The change was made, according to Bob Fead, senior vice president of marketing for A&M, to "reduce the number of points of distribution we have." A&M now has 21 points of distribution including the sales office in Boston.

In related developments, Western Merchandisers, Amarillo-based rack jobbers and retailers, made exploratory contacts with independent manufacturers concerning the opening of an independent distribution operation in Denver. Also this week, Lifesong Records pulled its Chicago line from M.S. Distributing and gave it to newly opened Progress Distributing in Chicago.

'Don't Need 25'

Fead, when interviewed at A&M's offices, explained, "I'm convinced that you don't need 25 points of distribution where you warehouse merchandise. If we can reduce the number, we can save in inventory and pressing costs."

Fead added that he didn't know "if there's a particular number of distributors we're aiming for. If you get real streamlined, you could get down to 10-15 independent distributors. If you own your own store, like CBS or WEA, you could do it with six or eight.

"There's a magic number for every company. What it is for our company I don't know."

Lenny Silver, owner of the Transcontinent operation based in Buffalo, said, "A&M didn't pull the line on account of our performance or payment. They told us it was 'a consolidation.' "

Silver's distribution business with A&M last year was $3.5 million. He added that his overall sales for the year ran close to $46 million.

'High Regard For A&M'

He said, "We always did and still have a high regard for A&M. But it was a slap in my face and it demoralized a lot of my people." Nonetheless, "it doesn't hurt me at all."

In addition to his distribution operation, Silver owns Transcontinent Record Sales, a rack jobber, and a chain of one stops in Buffalo, Syracuse, Rochester, Cincinnati, Cleveland and New Jersey, among others. He also operates the Record Theater chain of stores.

Western Merchandisers, Amarillo-based merchandiser, has sent out "feelers" to determine the feasibility of opening an independent distribution operation in Denver. Western presently does not function as an independent distributor.

There is currently only one indy distributor in the market: M.S. Distributing of Denver. Previously known as Record Sales, M.S. acquired the operation from Transamerica last year.

Cash Box has learned that Western Merchandisers has obtained the services of Bob Krug in Denver, who formerly was

ABC Records' Return Plan 'Under Review' by Co. Execs

by Dave Fulton

LOS ANGELES — The ABC Records return program, implemented last June, is presently "under review," Cash Box learned this week.

The incentive program offers discounts of 1% to 3% to ABC accounts if they hold their overall return rates under three different levels. The extra discount has been based on returns from last July through December and awarded on purchases since Jan. 1, 1977.

Bill Shaler, ABC vice-president of sales, said, "We are reviewing the return program, and a decision has not been made at this point as to whether we will extend it. Regardless of what decision is made, we will, of course, honor any discounts earned."

Final Decision Due Soon

Shaler stated that the final decision will be made prior to the end of June. He added, "We intend to reduce our returns as a company overall. You do that with a lot of things and a program can be a part of it. But, it has to be a total company philosophy more than anything else."

A number of executive changes in the ABC hierarchy since the establishment of the returns program may have warranted the review at this time.

Jimmy's Music World Expands Operations

Steps Up Advertising In New York Market To Suit Fast Growth

by Ken Terry

NEW YORK — Jimmy's Music World, which opened its first store less than two years ago, has doubled in size since the first of the year and has become the most aggressive music retailer in New York, the toughest record market in the country.

Now operating 33 units in the metropolitan area, Jimmy's has drastically stepped up its advertising to accomodate its massive growth. Spokesmen for local newspapers and radio and TV stations have indicated that the chain has recently bought more advertising than any other area record retailer, including Sam Goody, King Karol and Korvettes.

At present, Jimmy's is running ads on the New York affiliates of both CBS and NBC-TV, as well as on other local stations. On CBS-TV, Jimmy's has signed an annual contract for weekly ads, the only area music retailer to have done so (although Korvettes occasionally advertises records on the station along with other items).

A spokesman for NBC stated that Jimmy's has been advertising heavily with the station during the past two months. In comparison to other area record dealers, the source said, "Jimmy's has taken the leadership position" in advertising. He expected Jimmy's to continue this activity, because "it's been successful for him."

While Jimmy's has recently discontinued running spots on ABC-TV, a spokesman for

by Ken Terry & Mark Mehler

NEW YORK — Jimmy's Music World has begun to implement plans for its first major expansion beyond the New York metropolitan area, as predicted in February by Richard Butler, operations manager for Sutton Distributors, which owns Jimmy's (Cash Box, February 26).

In Boston, Jimmy's has taken over the management of the four-unit Strawberries chain on a trial basis. In addition, it is currently negotiating with Morris Levy, president of both Strawberries and Roulette Records, to buy the Boston retail operation.

Cash Box has also learned that Jimmy's next move will probably be into the Washington, D.C. market. While denied by Butler, reports of these plans were confirmed by a reliable source close to Jimmy's, as well as by three Washington retailers.

At the moment, dealers in Washington don't seem overly concerned about the prospect of the Jimmy's incursion. One retailer pointed out that $2.99 (Jimmy's price on weekly specials) is already a prevalent sale price in the market. Another noted that Jimmy's is going to encounter tough competition in an established market like Washington.

Boston Prices May Plunge

Up in Boston, however, retailers are preparing for a seige as Jimmy's starts to introduce its New York style of operation. While it is not yet known whether Jimmy's will buy Strawberries, indications are that the issue will be resolved within the next two weeks.

Already, under its new management, Strawberries has run an ad in the Boston Phoenix promoting front-line releases for $3.69 (see retail price story on page 9). This is the lowest price Strawberries has advertised since Christmas, when stiff competition from Lechmere (which promoted "Wings Over America" for $5.14) apparently persuaded Strawberries to reconsider its practice of lowballing.

In addition, a spokesman for Strawberries stated that, if Jimmy's buys the chain, it will immediately lower its sale price on 30-50 titles per week to $2.99, its shelf price on $6.98 list albums to $3.99, and its shelf price on $7.98 list LPs to $4.49. His report was indirectly corroborated by Butler, who told Cash Box in February that Jimmy's practice of offering low prices on certain front-line releases could work in other markets besides New York.

Of course, as a spokesman for the Boston-based Jordan Marsh department store chain pointed out, that city has had its share of lowballers in the past. "When Strawberries first came in with their low prices and with their records that had more than one price, it affected business. There's no two ways about it. But I guess there's enough for everybody."

Retailers Promise A Fight

Other Boston dealers had a less lenient attitude toward Jimmy's entrance into their

Album And Tape Unit Sales Rise By 11% in 1976

NEW YORK — Unit record and tape sales rose 11% in 1976 over the previous year, reaching 592 million, according to figures released by the Recording Industry Association of America. Dollar sales volume on combined records and tapes was $2.74 billion, up 15% over the $2.39 billion registered in 1975.

Unit LP sales in 1976 were 273 million, up about 6% over the 257 million total registered in 1975. Unit sales of single discs rose from 164 million to 190 million, or about 16%, the first increase in single sales since 1974. Eight-track tape sales rose from 94.6 million units to 106.1 million in 1976, and cassettes went from 16.2 million to 21.8 million units. Total tape sales, including quad and reel-to-reel, increased from 112 million to 129 million units.

Dollar volume on albums in 1976 rose 12%, from $1.485 billion to $1.663 billion. Single sales went from $211.5 million to $245.1 million, a 16% hike.

Dollar volume on 8-track sales reached $678.2 million, up 16% from $583 million the previous year, while cassette dollar volume rose a whopping 47% from $98.8 million to $145.7 million. However, the volume of quad tape sales declined from $8.2 million to $5.1 million, and reel-to-reel tape sales fell so low that the RIAA has ceased recording those figures as a distinct category.

All dollar volumes are stated in terms of suggested list prices.

Outdoor Concerts In Central Park Should Continue

by Charles Paikert

NEW YORK — It appears likely that the Schaefer Music Festival, New York City's traditional outdoor summer concert series held in Central Park, will be continued this year. However, it will have a different name and a different sponsor.

New York Mayor Abraham Beame is expected to announce its extension at a press conference this week. At press time, a spokesman for the city's Parks and Recreation department, which has ruled out appearances by hard rock groups at the festival, said the department "is proceeding with negotiations with producers and sponsors for a series this year."

The Isley Brothers have established themselves as a commercial and creative force in popular music. Following a succession of successful records, their current album, "Go For Your Guns," was certified gold within four weeks of release and is now pointing toward platinum. The album quickly climbed to #1 on the Cash Box Top 75 R&B Albums chart on May 21, and it is still ascending at #6 on the Top 200 Pop Albums chart. The single culled from the album, "The Pride," is #7 on the Cash Box Top 100 R&B Singles chart this week.

Every album released by the Isley Brothers on their own T-Neck label, distributed by CBS Records, has achieved gold certification. Since joining the CBS Records Associated Labels family, they have been responsible for a steady line of hits, with the albums "3+3," "Live It Up," "The Heat Is On," "Harvest For The World," "Go For Your Guns" and the single "Fight The Power." All were written, arranged, performed and produced by the inimitable Isleys.

The Isley Brothers are currently preparing for an extensive summer tour of stadium dates, mostly outdoor events.

Strawberries Begins To Slash Prices Again As New Management Takes Over Operation

Boston Prepares For Price War

by Mark Mehler and Ken Terry

NEW YORK — The new operators of the four-store Strawberries chain in Boston have already made an impact on the chain's pricing structure.

Strawberries, which is being run and may soon be bought by Sutton Distributors, owners of Jimmy's Music World, advertised 26 front-line releases for $3.69 and the latest LP by Cat Stevens ($7.98 list) for $4.49 in this week's Boston Phoenix. The chain's prices had been holding steadily at $3.89 over the past five months, after dipping to as low as $3.49 in a price-slashing spree last Thanksgiving and Christmas.

"All our prices will be going down in the next two weeks if the sale goes through," said one Strawberries spokesman, referring to negotiations between Sutton and Strawberries owner Morris Levy.

The manager said with the change in ownership, 30 to 50 specials a week would be advertised at $2.99, and shelf prices would fall to $3.99. The current normal Strawberries shelf price on $6.98 product is $4.49. Jimmy's Music World, with 33 stores in the New York metropolitan area, is considered the major instigator of the New York price war, being the most visible $2.99 lowballer in that market.

Other retailers in the Boston market indicated they would not sit idly by as Strawberries undercuts them. Linda Stellinger, head buyer for the Harvard Coop, said, "My general inclination is that we'd do anything they do. Our general policy is to meet any competition around the Square (Harvard Square)."

Stellinger said she expected Strawberries to begin advertising more heavily, which would probably help spur impulse buying at all Boston record stores.

Strawberries is one of the major R&B and disco retailers in that market, just as Jimmy's is in New York. Stellinger noted that while the Coop doesn't heavily stock that product, "We'd certainly meet it (low R&B prices); but our advertising probably wouldn't include it."

Another unusually low-priced promotion was observed at Ayr Way in Indianapolis, which advertised over two pages in the Indianapolis Star, 90 current and catalog $6.98 list LPs for $3.99 and 22 $7.98 list album for $4.44. Ayr Way runs a similar major print promotion twice a year, according to record buyer Pat Booher. However, the most recent special insert ad last November promoted the albums at shelf price; $5.49 for $6.98 list LPs and $6.67 for $7.98 list LPs.

Booher noted that Ayr Way, and its major mass merchandise competitiors, K mart and Turnstyle stores, have all been hurt somewhat by extremely low prices at some of the smaller shops in Indianapolis.

"I can't name all of them," Booher sighed, "Karma, the Record Company . . . their pricing is hurting us. They've gone to $3.57, $3.75. We don't know how they're doing it. But there is a specific customer who comes to Ayr Way to buy records, and we're losing him. We need to stay competitive."

Brooklyn Mini-Department Store Is Offering Black Albums For $2.89

by Ken Terry

NEW YORK — The lowest price for R&B and disco albums in Brooklyn is found not at Jimmy's Music World, but at the Plaza Exchange, a new mini-department store which was constructed with funds secured by the Bedford-Stuyvesant Restoration Corporation.

Currently, the Exchange's record department is charging $2.89 for the latest albums by Brick, Marlena Shaw, Teddy Pendergrass, Marvin Gaye, Carrie Lucas, Jean Carn and Brass Construction. Jimmy's lowest sale price is $2.99.

The Exchange also has lower shelf prices than Jimmy's, $3.89 for $6.98 list LPs and $4.89 for $7.98 list discs. Jimmy's, whose nearest store is a 15-minute bus ride away from the Plaza Exchange, charges a dime more in both categories.

Power To The People

"We have the cheapest prices in town," noted Doreen Williams, the Exchange's record buyer and department manager. "If a person comes to us and they've found a price that's cheaper than ours, we'll beat that price. The idea is to keep the money in the people's pockets. If they can come to us and shop cheaper than they can going downtown, we want them to do this."

The Exchange's generous retail policy stems from the fact that it was conceived as a service to the people of Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section. Until now, many name brands of such consumer goods as wearing apparel, housewares, appliances, small power tools, stereos, television sets and records were only available at some distance from the area's decaying neighborhoods. The Bedford-Stuyvesant Restoration Corporation, which is funded by the Kennedy and Ford Foundations, decided to remedy the situation by establishing a small, pilot department store within an existing shopping center, Restoration Plaza.

At first, the Restoration Corp. took its case to several large department store chains. After they turned down the proposal, the corpoation itself decided to fund construction. A bank loan was used to purchase the store's initial inventory.

Cutouts Help Maintain Margin

The choice of product lines for the store's eight departments was based on informal consumer surveys, including recommendations from the unit's 10 employees, who all live in Bedford-Stuyvesant.

The record department, the largest section in the store, carries R&B, disco, jazz, gospel, children's and comedy albums, and will soon add Latin records. About 20% of its inventory consists of high-profit cutouts, which should make up for the losses sustained on the department's $2.89 specials, according to Williams.

Operating on a 22% markup, or about half that of conventional department stores, the Plaza Exchange will base its profitability on high volume, fast turnover and a modest operational cost. The Restoration Corporation hopes that the store will make a five percent net profit on a first-year's volume of approximately $750,000. These profits will be used, Williams said, to restore or replace rundown buildings in the community.

ABC Records To Experience 'Substantial' Losses In 1977

NEW YORK — The ABC Records Division will experience losses in 1977 "substantially greater" than those of 1976, according to Elton Rule, president of ABC Inc. These and other remarks detailing the entertainment conglomerate's multi-faceted activities were delivered at ABC's annual shareholders meeting held last week in New York.

The poor performance of the recorded music operations contrasts markedly with the success of ABC's broadcast division. Net earnings for broadcasting were up $86.8 million last year enabling earnings for the parent company to leap from $17.7 million to $71.75 million. Broadcasting accounted for approximately 75% of total corporate revenues last year.

Rule said that because of "serious problems (with ABC Records) as indicated by losses we have reported for the last 2½ years . . . we were compelled to change the operating management of ABC Records." Rule asserted that in Stephen Diener, the new president of the record division who recently replaced Jerry Rubinstein, "we have selected a man with proven ability in the marketing and international sides of the business . . . his instructions are to tailor the division to the scale and structure it requires to participate profitably in the present-day recorded music business."

Among the serious problems to which the new management is addressing itself, Rule indicated, are the reduction and upgrading of the artist roster; the improved coordination of marketing activities; and a reduction in overhead and inventory.

However, Rule lamented, "The steps Mr. Diener must take will require some write-offs and other restructuring costs this year.

WOL Station Execs Testify as FCC Hearings Resume

By Joanne Ostrow

WASHINGTON, D.C. — WOL station management took its turn on the stand when the FCC payola-plugola inquiry went back into action May 16. Basic definitions, such as what constitutes a plug, were in dispute and certain gifts from friends in the record business were scrutinized for whatever implications they might hold.

FCC counsel Ted Kramer questioned WOL general manager James Kelsey on items of clothing, approximately $1,732-worth, paid for by Philadelphia International Records or its subsidiaries. Many of the items purchased as Krass Brothers Clothiers, Philadelphia, were not actually received by him, Kelsey maintained; some clothes were received free from personal friends, others were purchased at 25% discounts, and Kelsey's name, if not his signature, appeared on several receipts. In addition, two hotel bills allegedly were picked up by PIR or Gamble & Huff (interchangeable, Kelsey said). The invoices in question were produced in the original grand jury probe in Newark, N.J. last year, although no WOL representatives appeared.

Kelsey said he never reported any of the gifts — including a $177.95 rabbit fur coat received the week after Christmas 1973 — because "if something is given to me as a friend I don't have to report it. If something is given and something is asked in return, then I would have to . . ." and he stressed he has known those at PIR as personal friends.

What's In A Plug?

In an attempt to nail down a definition of plugola, FCC counsel referred to a 1971 memo written by Kelsey to Alan Henry, executive vice president of Sonderling Broadcasting Corp., on WOL programming policy. "There are just too many things in our SBC policy book stopping us from loosening up," he wrote. "For example: no plugola, no mention of the artist when appearing with us, no extra talk about guests coming up, no mention of cab drivers driving around the streets." The competition in town, WOOK and WUST, are able to do these things, he said. Kelsey testified that by plugola he meant, in the memo, plugging certain businesses which play the station, by dedicating a song for instance. Cortez Thompson, WOL program director, concurred in his testimony, saying " 'plug' is just a play on words for 'mention.' "

Personal Vendetta Alleged

On the subject of DJ Productions, the now-defunct concert promotion firm run by WOL djs, Kelsey said, "I founded it" by suggesting they join forces instead of competing against each other. He said he never intended that the djs would incorporate or promote big shows. "I expected a one-shot deal," he said.

The ensuing controversy, Kelsey testified, centers on a feud between Mel Edwards, former president of DJP and recently fired WOL dj (who was dismissed from his subpoena at the start of this round of hearings), and William Washington, president of Dimensions Unlimited, competing local promotion firm. "Washington felt the guys were trying to run him out of the business" and thought a dj shouldn't be allowed to promote, Kelsey said. Program director Thompson similarly testified that Washington "had a personal vendetta against Mel Edwards."

Thompson was never offered the opportunity to join the concert promotion firm as a stockholder and he was on the receiving end of complaints from Washington, specifically referring to Edwards, from the beginning. FCC counsel produced copies of three such complaints: letters sent to the FCC from three Richmond, Va. organizations protesting Edwards' promotional activities there. Earl N. Wynn of Peaceful Concerts Inc. wrote in April 1976 that Edwards "has implied (to talent agents) that if he cannot secure their talent for this market, he will see to it that the artist's record is not played." Richard Green, national director of Alliance of Black Promotors and Concerned Citizens for Economic Progress, wrote, "Edwards has used his position in broad-

Industry Will See Continued Global Growth: Polygram

LOS ANGELES — An inter-group poll of 100 top executives of the Polygram Group, taken by Polygram, has shown that the executives feel the growth the music industry has seen in the past few years in developed countries will continue. The survey included 100 executives from Polygram companies in 31 countries and encompassed the worlds of recorded music, film, television, music publishing and mail order.

Coen Solleveld, president of Polygram worldwide, said, "We are witnessing the emergence of a vast affluent society and we all know that there is a definite correlation between music consumption and household earnings." The survey, entitled "Focus on the Future," also said increased prosperity would have the greatest effect in those countries where the main obstacle to music consumption has been insufficient disposable income.

Record Executives Emphasize That Summer Has Become A Key Season For Companies

by Mark Mehler

NEW YORK — The lazy days of summer in the record business have apparently ended. While sales levels and marketing competition in the summer still lag behind such peak seasons as Christmas and late fall, major manufacturers are attempting to break new and established acts in July and August.

"The slow summer," intoned Jack Kiernan, vice-president of marketing for RCA Records, "is just a state of mind. If we (the industry) get the proper merchandise out, the people will buy it, even if in slightly lesser quantities than at Christmas."

Summer Resurgence

The resurgence of the summer as a viable selling season was most dramatically heralded last year with WEA's "Summer Gold Rush" campaign on 76 new LPs and CBS' "176" catalog promotion program. Both companies plan considerable expansion of their summer marketing this year.

CBS Records will soon launch its 1977 "Summer Sale-A-Thon," by far its most intensive advertising and merchandising summer thrust.

However, Paul Smith, vice-president of marketing/branch distribution for CBS Records, did not consider this year's push to be a radical departure from past years, at least in terms of concept.

"The customers, particularly the major retailers, have been telling us for some time that July and August are two of the best retail months of the year," Smith noted. And we've been taking advantage of that."

Among the major releases slated for June are albums by Burton Cummings and Joan Baez on Portrait, already set for shipment; and new albums by Boz Scaggs, James Taylor, Aerosmith, Chicago, the Emotions, Ian Hunter, Bruce Johnson, and the Fania All-Stars. Many of the biggest selling acts will carry $7.98 list price tags, Smith indicated, including the James Taylor and Aerosmith LPs.

Advertising and in-store promotion will coincide with national tours by several CBS superstar acts, who will be playing stadium dates and other outdoor arenas throughout the summer.

CBS will also run a concurrent 100-LP catalog campaign. Extended dating and other customer incentives have been designed to encourage accounts to stock up now in preparation for the June-July marketing push.

WEA's 1977 "Super Star Summer," which will be announced officially this week, features contests and discounts on 140 old and new releases by established artists like George Harrison, Fleetwood Mac, the Eagles and Queen. This will be augmented by WEA's regular monthly releases.

All label executives queried by Cash Box shared the view of WEA executive vice-president Henry Droz, that "the summer is what we want to make it."

New Strategy

"A few years ago the summer was considered vacation time, not worth the effort," said Dennis White, vice-president of sales for Capitol. "It was assumed the kids were not interested in shopping for records indoors . . . but if they want the records, they'll buy anytime."

While Capitol album sales have dipped a bit in July and August, White noted that 8-track sales can be expected to pick up the slack, tied to increased summer driving.

Among the typical summer seasonal promotions planned by record companies are A&M's beach towel giveaway bearing the bright green and orange logo off the cover of the latest Pablo Cruise LP. "We think Cruise is a great summer-type product," asserted Ernie Campagna, national sales manager of A&M. "It gives you that kind of feeling."

Pirated Tape Seizures

Three Indicted For Tape Piracy

LOS ANGELES — A federal grand jury has returned an indictment against three individuals, charging them with tape piracy, conspiracy and transportation of tapes bearing counterfeit labels.

Charges against Arpad Loecsey, Raymond Jennings, and Janos Novotina came after a nine-month grand jury and FBI investigation. According to Jon Rapore, Assistant United States Attorney who headed the investigation, the defendants pirated copyrighted sound recordings from the Bee Gees, Seals & Crofts, Kiss, Deep Purple, Freddy Fender, Grand Funk Railroad and Nazareth, among others.

Raids In Five States Net FBI 9,000 Tapes

NEW YORK — FBI agents staged raids on alleged tape piracy operations in five states recently, seizing a total of over 9,000 prerecorded tapes and quantities of duplicating equipment, labels and business records.

William Simone was arrested by FBI agents in Scranton, Pa. following a series of raids on local retail shops, netting about 1,500 tapes.

More than 3,000 allegedly pirated tapes were taken in raids on flea markets in Bristol and Milford, Connecticut, while raiders seized 2,600 tapes in Seattle, Washington. Over 1,000 tapes were confiscated in Oakland.

Columbia's Collectors Series Carry $7.98 List; Jazz Titles Excluded

NEW YORK — The list price of albums included in the Collector Series on Columbia Records will be raised from $6.98 to $7.98 on July 1, with the exception of the jazz titles in the series.

John Franks, director of special services for Columbia Records, cited increased costs as the reason for the price hike, but said the list price of the jazz albums would remain at $6.98 because of "the competitive situation in that market."

In addition, customers purchasing the classical titles will be offered two free LPs for every ten purchased.

Springboard Acquires LPs For Budget Line From 20th Century

NEW YORK — Springboard International Records has acquired non-exclusive rights to selected 20th Century Records catalog items in a recently signed license agreement.

Two-record sets by Tommy Dorsey, Glenn Miller and Shirley Temple will be the first albums marketed on Springboard budget labels under the agreement, with the sets carrying a suggested list price of $3.98 and $4.98 for tape. The 20th Century material will also be released as single albums with the standard Springboard budget line suggested list price of $2.49.

WEA Convention Draws Over 100 To Discuss Future Plans

LOS ANGELES — At Warner/Elektra/Atlantic Corporation's second annual summer marketing and planning seminar, Joel Friedman, WEA president, said the company had accomplished in its six years "what it has taken many of our competitors to achieve in substantially more time."

Held in Tucson, Ariz., May 10 through May 14, the convention drew WEA branch managers, sales managers and marketing coordinators to its series of marketing and planning meetings.

In all, more than 100 key personnel and executives from WEA, Warner Bros. Records, Elektra/Asylum Records and Atlantic Records attended the seminar.

In opening the convention, Friedman said, "The focus of WEA's attention is totally and thoroughly on meeting the needs of our customers so as to insure that WEA is responsive to the changing marketplace."

He also said the "embryonic days" of WEA administrative and operational procedure were now past and said the company's attention will be directed towards promotion and marketing.

Henry Droz, executive vice-president of WEA, introduced the corporation's "SuperStar Summer" national sales program. The program consists of an extensive campaign featuring 140 selections from the catalogs of the WEA labels.

Beginning May 23, the "SuperStar Summer" program will continue through June 24 and will involve discounts to customers, sales contests, in-store merchandising materials and advertising.

In addition to new product presentations by each of the labels, the audience attended several sales, promotion and marketing seminars. The details of three successful regional campaigns were reviewed by a merchandising panel led by Bob Moering, WEA director of merchandising.

The panel also included Dave Benjamin and James Wood, (from WEA's Atlanta branch), Bill Perasso, Hale Milgrim, Bob Murphy and Rich Cohen (Los Angeles branch) and Bruce Tesman and Larry herman (New York branch).

Special sessions dealing with specific fields of music and other topics were held, one of which was "The Marketing of Black Music," moderated by Friedman. Included in the session were: Oscar Fields, WEA's director of black music marketing; Hillery Johnson, vice-president and director of special markets for Atlantic Records; and Henry Allen, president of Cotillion Records.

Joining them were Eddie Holland, vice-president of Cotillion Records; Tom

Largest U.S. Retail Chains Report Results For First Quarter; Income, Sales Are Flat

by Ken Terry

NEW YORK — With retail sales across the nation relatively sluggish in the first quarter, retail income for the country's three largest mass merchandisers did not register any notable advances above prior-year figures. Income from retailing rose 8.7% for Sears, Roebuck & Co., dropped 1.1% for K mart Corp. and remained nearly constant for J.C. Penney Co.

Sears' operating income from sales and services during the first quarter, ended April 30, rose to $213, 654,000 from $196,-603,000 last year. Aided by a strong recovery by Sears' Allstate Insurance Company subsidiary, though, the company's overall earnings were much more impressive, climbing 81% to $154,123,000 from $85,067,000 a year ago. Net sales during the same period climbed 12.8% to $3,-606,844,000 from $3,197,001,000.

For the 13 weeks ended April 27, K mart's income from retail operations dipped to $42,549,000 from $43,028,000 in the prior-year period. However, sales were up 19.8% to $2,016,824,000 from $1,683,149,000, and overall net income (including earnings from insurance operations) increased 0.3% to $43,042,000 from $42,899,000 a year ago.

Penney's earnings for the first quarter, $29.9 million, were virtually identical to those of a year ago, although sales rose seven percent to $1.86 billion from $1.73 billion.

Robert E. Dewar, chairman of the board of K mart Corp., attributed K mart's unspectacular retail results in the first quarter to a "relatively soft environment" of general merchandise demand, as well as to "unfavorable U.S. weather conditions," higher energy costs and increasing tax rates. He predicted that consumer demand would rise substantially in succeeding quarters.

According to Donald V. Siebert, chairman of the board of J.C. Penney Co., the static state of his company's earnings have to be regarded in light of the fact that last year's first-quarter income set a record. Also keeping this year's earnings in check have been high interest expenses due to an increased level of borrowing and losses experienced by Penney's Treasury discount stores.

Sears' modest increase in retail income reflected an improvement in the selling and administrative expense ratio, which was offset by a modest reduction in gross

'Beatlemania' Points To Broadway Despite Possible Legal Problems

by Phil DiMauro

NEW YORK — A new musical production scheduled for Broadway called "Beatlemania" will continue rehearsals despite substantiated reports that the Beatles themselves oppose the show. However, as yet, legal action has not been taken on the part of any of the four former Beatles.

With an out-of-town run just completed, the show is scheduled for an official opening at the Winter Garden Theater on June 1. The multi-media and live production boasts a score of John Lennon/Paul McCartney songs, with staging and design by Jules Fisher, a noted Broadway stage designer. According to Steve Leber, one of the producers, the 4600 slides and one hour of film footage used in the show are only part of a $1,000,000-plus investment.

Leber and David Krebs (managers of Aerosmith, Ted Nugent and others) are in the midst of plans to produce four or five additional shows utilizing catalogs of contemporary popular writer/artists. The priority project at this time is a play or film with a score based around the Eagles' "Desperado," which could be affected by the Eagles' recent lawsuit against copyright owners Warner Brothers Music (Cash Box, May 21). Legal sources close to the Eagles have stated that the lawsuit could affect the sale of the "grand rights" (for dramatic performance) to the Eagles' compositions.

Speaking to the issues surrounding both shows, Leber stated, "There isn't as much controversy over this as everybody wants to believe. It's not a show about the Beatles. This is a show about the sixties, and we make a statement about the period." Leber further stated that he "took exception" to reports that the Beatles objected to the show. "The lawyers are objecting to 'Beatlemania,' not the individual Beatles, and the only time I'll accept an objection from an individual Beatle is after he's seen it."

Both Leber and legal counsel to the former Beatles stated that no representative had attended previews of the show in Boston. The counsel supported reports that the former members of the Beatles maintain opposition to "Beatlemania."

Leber-Krebs obtained "grand rights" to the Lennon/McCartney songs from ATV Music, owners of the copyrights. "The truth is that if they (the Beatles) owned the rights exclusively, I doubt if they would have given them up," stated Leber," but the truth is that the show should be performed."

He pointed out that no George Harrison material would be used in the score, because Harrison himself owns the rights to the three songs that Leber-Krebs wanted for the show, "While My Guitar Gently Weeps," "Here Comes The Sun" and "Something."

For the present, Leber and the Eagles' general counsel are in discussions regarding a possible settlement of rights to the "Desperado" project, exclusive of the disputed contract between the Eagles and WB Music. Leber explained his feelings that neither the Beatles nor the Eagles were being exploited by the sale of "grand rights" to their songs by the respective publishing companies.

S.S. Kresge Company Is Now K mart Corp.

TROY, MICHIGAN — S.S. Kresge Company shareholders voted at the firm's annual meeting to change the company's name to K mart Corporation. The move became effective May 17.

The board of directors recommended the change so that the corporate name would reflect the nature of the company's business. In fiscal 1976, K mart sales accounted for 94.5% of the company's domestic consolidated sales and K mart produced 96% of the company's pre-tax income. The number of K mart stores in the United States increased to 1,095 in 1976, while the number of Kresge stores was reduced to 281.

Currently, there are 1,234 K mart units.

CE Chains To See 10% Growth In '77

LOS ANGELES — Consumer electronics stores will increase in number by more than 10% before the year is out, due largely to increased buyer interest in stereo equipment, TV games, CBs and tape players, according to a recent report in Discount Store News.

The nation's top 15 consumer electronics chains will debut 80 new stores before the end of 1977, bringing the total of new units this year to 829. These figures, reported in the May 9 issue of DSN, reflect a 10.7% increase in the number of stores in existence as of May 1.

Radio Shack

Excluded from those figures is Radio Shack, the largest chain, which will pace the industry this year by adding 529 stores to its current 5,016 units for a 10.5% increase over its May 1 total.

The report also predicts that Radio Shack's volume will approach the $1 billion mark for the first time at the close of the fiscal year June 30. A projected volume of $975 million for the chain reflects a 31.5% jump from the last fiscal year's total of $741.7 million.

A stepped-up competitiveness between the chains is evidenced by the number of chains which will expand to new markets. Radio Shack, for example, is planning to add stores in Washington and South Carolina where there is a low concentration of consumer electronics stores.

Pacific Stereo, which will open 10 new stores in the remainder of 1977, will be a newcomer to the Texas market where it will add stores in Dallas, Houston and Fort Worth.

picks of the week

SPINNERS (Atlantic 3400)
Me And My Music (3:26) (Mighty Three — BMI) (Marshall, Wortham)

A real roots record for the Spinners, from the first chords of the piano and the gospel ring of Philippe Wynn's voice. The subtle vocal arrangement is perfectly balanced with the instrumental, continuing producer Thom Bell's fine record with this group. Should garner R&B, pop airplay.

JOHNNY GUITAR WATSON (DJM/Amherst 1024)
A Real Mother (3:55) (Vir-Jon — BMI) (Watson)

The first and title single from Watson's latest LP confirms a further development of his original style. The synthesized bass line is irresistable, and his earthy rap shows a great sense of humor. Looking to good R&B and pop numbers.

EDDIE KENDRICKS (Tamla/Motown 54285)
Date With The Rain (2:42) (Stone Agate — BMI) (Miller)

A high-stepping city song that comes across clearly and vibrantly with this record. Kendricks seems to be at the top of his form vocally, and R&B and pop stations should respond.

IAN MATTHEWS (Columbia 10553)
Tigers Will Survive (3:32) (Island/Falling Rock — BMI) (Matthews, Lacy)

From his recent Columbia album "Hit And Run," this is a current recording of Matthews' ultimate cult favorite composition. Understated melodies carry a most unusual lyric, and an incisively recorded band of expert musicians cooks a great deal of class into the tracks. Looking to top 40 play.

SERGIO MENDES AND THE NEW BRASIL '77 (Elektra 45405)
Love Me Tomorrow (3:20) (Hudmar — ASCAP) (Paich)

This song fits right into Mendes' percussive Brazilian framework, though emphasis is provided here by guitar and an elegantly harmonized chorus. Many will know this excellent David Paich song as a Boz Scaggs LP cut, although it was never released as a single.

BLONDIE CHAPLIN (Elektra Asylum 45400)
Gimme More Rock 'N' Roll (3:05) (Tour De Force) (Chaplin)

An upbeat number from this writer/vocalist/bassist's debut LP that more than lives up to its title. The steady handclapping beat is offset by falsetto interludes that bring out the urgency of Chaplin's sinewy vocal. Great expectations for AOR, top 40, car radios.

BILLY OCEAN (Epic 50396)
Red Light (Spells Danger) (3:28) (Black Sheep/Heath Levy — ASCAP) (Findon, Charles)

A simple song based on repetition of a chorus, but the shifting moods of Ocean's vocal create constant excitement. He ranges from a low purr to a frantic shout, sometimes chasing after the music as if his life depended on it. Lots of the spirit of old rock and roll and Motown music in this sleeper for varied formats.

JOHNNY'S DANCE BAND (Windsong/RCA 10994)
Guilty (3:23) (Juan/Cherry Lane — ASCAP) (Jackson, Juliano, Mancini)

Threads of the sixties are woven through this first single from the debut album of a popular local group from Philadelphia. The chords are traditional to rock and roll, and the organ solo worthy of Felix Cavaliere (Rascals). A memory sticker for top 40 and AOR.

ROUGH DIAMOND (Island 087)
Rock 'N' Roll (2:42) (WB — ASCAP) (Byron, Clempson, Britton)

From the debut LP of this recently formed group of notables, this record's classic rock power chords back the up-front performance of vocalist David Byron (ex-Uriah Heep). Syncopation, the entrance of funky backing vocals and an a capella ending keep this tight performance moving.

BOBBY BLAND (ABC 12280)
The Soul Of A Man (3:02) (Don/ABC/Dunhill — BMI) (Bland, Braggs)

Bland plays the blues with only the subtlest influence of modern soul funk, and the result is a class record mixed to display the delicate textural turns of his vocal. The sobbing string section is especially appropriate in this well-picked selection from "Reflections In Blue."

HEART (Portrait/CBS 70004)
Barracuda (3:23) (Wilsongs/Know/Play My — ASCAP) (Wilson, Wilson, Fisher)

This platinum-certified act's new album is "Little Queen," and the leading cut has emerged as a single with gnashing teeth. It's an aggressive rocker, tempered with sparkling production and Ann Wilson's alluring lead vocal. Sounds like just the combination for top 40 radio and impressive singles chart performance.

ATLANTA RHYTHM SECTION (Polydor 14397)
Neon Nites (2:44) (Low-Sal — BMI) (Buie, Nix)

ARS follow up their first single success, "So In To You," with a cool shuffle exhibiting a mild country influence. It's a love song once again, but the haunting quality of the latter has been replaced by a more lighthearted nostalgia. Top 40 airplay should draw further attention to "A Rock And Roll Alternative."

KIKI DEE (MCA 40730)
Chicago (3:08) (Pi-Gem/Darnoc — BMI) (Conrad, Goodman)

Dee displays versatility with this bluesy ballad, orchestrated with a reverberant wash of strings, electronic effects and a weaving string and brass section. She delivers the lyric with conviction in this offering for just about any format.

WILLIAM BELL (Mercury 73922)
Coming Back For More (3:15) (Bell-Kat — BMI) (Bell, Mitchell)

Bell changes theme a bit with this love song, but the vocal performance will jolt the recent memories of those who liked "Tryin' To Love Two." The string-laden chords backing the verses as well as the chorus have catchy qualities. Looking good for an initial shot at R&B radio.

PEZBAND (Passport/Sire/ABC 7909)
Baby It's Cold Outside (2:49) (Venerable/PZD — ASCAP)(Gauvenda, Betinis)

This single is right at the center of current trends toward sixties nostalgia, but its strong vocal orientation makes it stand out above the others. Pezband is expert at reproducing early Beatles intonation, and a memorable chorus should attract open-eared programmers.

DAN McCORISON (MCA 40729)
That's The Way My Woman Loves Me (2:44) (Screen Gems-EMI — BMI) (Harrison)

A rousing rockabilly record that looks at things from the positive side. McCorison has a comfortable rapping voice, and the instrumental section really cooks. An unusual production by Chris Hillman.

ELKIE BROOKS (A&M 1935)
Pearl's A Singer (3:39) (Xanadu — ASCAP) (Lieher, Stoller, Dino, Sembello)

A moving mini-musical drama in under four minutes. Against a simple arrangement, Brooks tells the sad story of a singer who never made it. When a soulful piano picks up the beat toward the close, some people get goosebumps. Big on the British charts, looking for the same in America.

R.B. GREAVES (Bareback 3333)
Rock And Roll (3:50) (Wing Out — BMI) (Metz, Miller)

A reggae/calypso number that tells the story of a beginning addiction to rock and roll, naming figures from the early fifties. A cute use of melodic motifs from "Camptown Races" and Greaves' Caribbean delivery make this a strong offering for pop or R&B stations.

LOU CHRISTIE (Midsong Int'l/RCA 10959)
Spanish Wine (3:17) (Hudson Bay — BMI) (White)

From the opening notes, it's obvious that Christie's famed falsetto croon has yet to waver. This record is loaded with summer, but it's well-produced sixties nostalgia. Could lightning strike in the same place twice?

ELLIOTT MURPHY (Columbia 10547)
Drive All Night (3:28) (Tender Night/Seldak — ASCAP) (Murphy)

This cut from Murphy's "Just A Story From America" album has found most favor with FM programmers thus far. The theme is young love and rebellion against social norms; the music is slick rock with firm roots in tradition. Will grow on AOR and may make the cross.

LONNIE YOUNGBLOOD (Turbo/All Platinum 050)
Gonna Fly Now (From the motion picture "Rocky") (4:45) (United Artists — ASCAP) (Conti, Connors, Robbins)

Soaring violins introduce this new arrangement of the song that is currently enjoying success in two other versions. This one is disco-aimed and benefits by Youngblood's tenor sax variations.

LUCY SIMON (RCA 10985)
If You Ever Believed (3:09) (WB — ASCAP) (Goldmark, Dasheff)

Simon's voice has a rich tone on this carefully produced selection from "Stolen Time." A chorus of layered harmonies keys this one for easy-listening and pop probabilities.

DONNY GERRARD (Greedy 114)
Darlin' (3:50) (Heavy Starch/Joyfully Sad — BMI) (Barton)

An ethereal arrangement surrounds Gerrard's smooth delivery of this ballad. The melody is strong, and a jazzy piano plays the upbeats for added lift. Sounds appropriate for R&B and some adult contemporary play.

PUSSYCAT (EMI/Capitol 4421)
Mississippi (3:22) (Veronica — BMI) (Theunissen)

This record achieved top honors for the year in many European markets, and was one of the top selling international singles of last year. It hasn't been a hit in the States, however, after one label tried and gave up. It's yet to be proven whether this country song recorded by Dutchmen can make it over here.

I.R.T. (UA XW970)
Lullaby Of Broadway (5:22) (Warner Bros. — ASCAP) (Warren, Dubin)

The ultimate city song gets the new big city treatment in this disco arrangement. The entire lyric is preserved, however delivered rather quickly. Backed with Winifred Shaw's original version from "Gold Diggers Of 1935."

OKLAHOMA (Capitol 4432)
Watcha Treatin' Me So Bad For? (2:24) (Caseyem/Beachwood/Egg/Fire In The Middle — BMI) (Crossley)

A meandering pedal steel guitar and a wall of strumming acoustics signal a country flavor in this group's light pop music. A gentle melody, clever lyrics and a brief programming time make this one pop-addable.

RICK WAKEMAN (A&M 1937)
White Rock (3:10) (Almo — ASCAP) (Wakeman)

From Wakeman's original soundtrack to the film documentary of the Innsbruck Winter Olympic Games, this is a frenetic layering of synthesizers and percussion, creating a complicated weave of simple rock and roll patterns.

THE CRUSADERS (ABC/Blue Thumb 272)
Feel It (3:05) (Four Knights — BMI) (Hooper, Felder, Carlton, Popwell, Dozier)

A great little riff played on electric piano and clavinet is the anchoring theme of this single, alternating with breaks of varying degrees of funk and swing. Every Crusader gets a solo here, even drummer Stix Hooper, who dances away on deep melodic tom-toms.

I.R.T. (UA UA-DW970-C)
Lullaby Of Broadway (5:22) (Warner Bros. Music — ASCAP) (H. Warren-A. Dubin)

Disco operators will have something unique to look forward to with this record based on the song from "Golddiggers of 1935" — the record's B side is the original version of the tune from the soundtrack.

ALBUM REVIEWS

Bob Marley & The Wailers — ILPS 9498 — Bob Marley & The Wailers — List: 6.98

When reggae music with a political theme is anathema to most of today's recording artists, Bob Marley has emerged as a powerful articulate musical spokesman for the world's have-nots. This fifth Wailer project achieves a judicious balance between socio-political criticism and joyous, celebration-of-life material. The gentle, swaying rhythms of the reggae beat make this album vibrate with positive energy. For a variety of playlists.

CAUGHT LIVE + 5 — The Moody Blues — London 2PS 690/1 — Producer: Tony Clark — List: 11.98

Mostly recorded at London's Royal Albert Hall in 1969, this two-record set features some of their best material, minus some of the elegant studio sophistication for which they're noted, but featuring instead the spirit and immediacy of a live performance. The set also contains a bonus of five previously unreleased tracks recorded in studio in 1967 and 1968. The energy of the live tracks and the presence of the "new" material should win the band AOR and top 40 playlist positions.

NETHER LANDS — Dan Fogelberg — Full Moon/Epic PE 34185 — Producer: Dan Fogelberg & Norbert Putnam — List: 7.98

The searing edge of Fogelberg's lyrical compositions cut a straight path to the soul with the surgical precision of a virtuoso whose voice is his musical instrument. With a little help from some talented friends, Dan emotes over a lavish and majestic production that give the album a full-bodied spacious feeling. For AOR, MOR and top 40 playlists.

PLAYIN' UP A STORM — The Greg Allman Band — Capricorn CP 0181 — Producer: Lenny Waronker & Russ Titelman — List: 6.98

After a whole series of changes, Greg has emerged to meet the light of day with a new six-man band that seems to share their front man's affinity for the southern-style blues rock that made the Allman Bros. Band such a monster group. This band mounts a frontal assault led by a pair of twin keyboards and guitars, allowing a variety of chord possibilities backed by a strong bass and rhythm line. For AOR and top 40 playlists.

HOLLY DAYS — Denny Laine — Capitol ST-11588 — Producer: Paul McCartney — List: 6.98

Wings guitarist Denny Laine tips his hat to the late great Buddy Holly on his second solo effort and first album project completed for Capitol. Friends Paul & Linda McCartney are never too far away from the audio action whether harmonizing vocally, taking photos for the sleeve and cover or just mixing and overdubbing tracks. It's a good team project that should find a place on AOR and top 40 playlists.

THELMA & JERRY — Thelma Houston & Jerry Butler — Motown M6-887S1 — Producer: Jerry Butler & Homer Alexander Talbert III — List: 6.98

This pairing has produced a particularly dynamic duo whose differences complement rather than oppose. The material they perform seems especially suitable for their vocal combination, and the arrangements have been tailor-made to fit the sum of their individual parts. Richly orchestrated and cleanly produced, this album should be an instant add to R&B, top 40 and varied playlists.

IN MY STRIDE — David Ruffin — Motown M6-885S1 — Producer: Van McCoy & Charles Kipps, Jr. — List: 6.98

The bulk of Ruffin's material on this album is sung over a rhythm line conducive to dancing types. A sway-tempo ballad has been included on each side but it's a shame that romantic ballads took the short straw this time, because it is on the tender tracks where Ruffin's voice really has the room to experience the full range of his vocal talent. For R&B, disco and top 40 playlists.

ULTRAVOX — Ultravox — Island ILPS 9449 — Producer: Brian Eno, Ultravox & Steve Lillywhite — List: 6.98

Combine Sweet's instrumental tightness with David Bowie's vocal style and you've got a partial explanation of this band's musical stance. This is one of those records that is a potpourri of musical style, where the dominant feature is the band's ability to switch chameleon-like from one sound to another. An interesting band that bears attention. Primarily for AOR playlists.

BABYFACE — Babyface — AS1 213 — Producer: Dan R. Holmes — List: 6.98

Babyface knows the score. If they have a preference between rock or MOR, it is not especially evident since they play either equally well. This debut album has already spawned two chartmaking singles in the MOR category, but they have the chops to run with the rock pack with even stronger intensity. This one for AOR, MOR and top 40 playlists.

I REMEMBER YESTERDAY — Donna Summer — Casablanca NBLP 7056 — Producer: Giorgio Moroder & Pete Bellotte — List: 7.98

Donna has not been unfaithful to the disco beat that has made her one of the reigning queens of the dance floor, but she's definitely got some vocal surprises this time out. The ubiquitous syncopation that gives disco its heartbeat is woven throughout the LP, save for a lone ballad, but Donna layers the sound with a variety of styles from early Supremes to The Shirelles. Disco purists will go for "I Feel Love." For varied playlists.

A SONG — Neil Sedaka — Elektra 6E-102 — Producer: George Martin — List: 7.98

When Neil launched his comeback as a performer in 1970 he literally called his own tune and has managed to collect three gold records in the meantime. As always, Neil delivers romantic love ballads sensitively without descending into schmaltz, but he's also in fine form when he vamps it up on such sassy tracks as "Sleazy Love," and "You Never Done It Like That." For top 40, MOR and varied playlists.

LIVE — Barry Manilow — Arista 8500 — Producer: Barry Manilow & Ron Dante — List: 11.98

It's no fluke that Barry Manilow is riding a crest of commercial popularity and selling albums as soon as they're stocked. But look out catalog, this live two-record blockbuster should make that crest a killer wave. Done almost completely at NYC's Uris Theatre in mid-tour last December, the album features those same elements that filled houses in 98 cities on the tour with unusually superior production qualities for a live LP.

EVERY FACE TELLS A STORY — Cliff Richard — Rocket/MCA PIG-2268 — Producer: Bruce Welch — List: 6.98

Though things are never out of control on this taut LP, Cliff can bite down when necessary to get the right emphasis and vocal shading to produce the desired effect. His associates are equally adept at providing color and balance without ever overshadowing the vocal statement which, in Cliff's case, is the real meat of the matter. For AOR, MOR and top 40 playlists.

POWERHOUSE — American Tears — Columbia PC 34676 — Producer: American Tears — List: 6.98

Aptly titled, this third album by American Tears lives up to its billing with a fire that rises more out of glowing embers than uncontrolled flames. The addition of Craig Evan Brooks on guitar is just what the band needed to give its formerly keyboard-dominated sound an extra dose of electric punch, but it has augmented rather than upset the delicate layered effects of this up-and-coming quartet. For AOR and top 40 playlists.

A SIMPLER TIME — Michael Katakis — A&M SP-4635 — Producer: Michael Katakis & Joel Cohen — List: 6.98

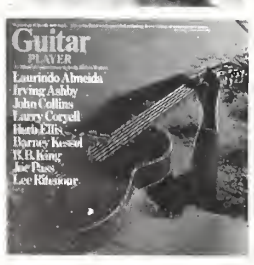
Many people express the desire to travel backwards in time, but with this album on the turntable and both eyes closed it's a direct route to the days when people did dance close, and lemonade was only two cents a glass. The gentle soothing quality of Michael's voice and the sensitivity of his lyrics shroud this album with a nostalgic veil that is quite effective in setting a mood. For MOR and varied playlists.

REAR VIEW MIRROR — Starland Vocal Band — Windsong/RCA BHL1-2239 — Producer: Milton Okun — List: 6.98

Not surprisingly, vocals are this engaging quartet's strong suit, whether on pitch-perfect harmonies or sparkling solos, and their stylistic range is broad enough for them to have room to move, but defined enough so that realistic parameters give structure to their work. Bill Danoff, the group's primary writer brings a fresh and topical approach to life's common themes, with a nice compromise between romantic and pragmatic reality. For varied playlists.

ROCK 'N ROLL ROCKET — Starbuck — Private Stock 06 PS 2027 — Producer: Bruce Blackman & Mike Clark — List: 6.98

Bruce Blackman's lyrics would be enough to recommend this rocking septet but the instrumental interplay is noteworthy as well on this set of all original compositions. The keyboards and guitars keep up an amiable rivalry for superiority in the final mix, but in the end a delicate balance keeps them on track. A tasty add for AOR and top 40 playlists.



GUITAR PLAYER — Various Artists — MCA 2-6002 — Producer: Leonard Feather — List: 7.98

In an unusually diverse anthology of contemporary guitar sounds, nine established heavies have rendered a batch of newly recorded music stretching from Charlie Christian-influenced material to contemporary jazz-rock. Solos (Joe Pass, Larry Coryell, Laurindo Almeida), duos (Irving Ashby-John Collins; Herb Ellis-Barney Kessel) and group arrangements (BB King, Lee Ritenour, Almeida) pepper the two-record set. For discriminating MOR, AOR and jazz playlists.

McCoy Tyner/Basic Black Band

SMUCKERS, N.Y.C. — McCoy Tyner recently played Smuckers, a new nightclub in Brooklyn, and displayed his abundant talents as a pianist, bandleader and composer, skills which were all the more enhanced by the club's comfortable and relaxed atmosphere. Although Smuckers' spaciousness perhaps took a slight edge off Tyner's brilliant intensity, an unobstructed view of the stage from all angles was no small consolation to patrons spread throughout the club.

Tyner's music enchanted the audience, alternating trance-like rhythms with harsh, strident, exploratory chords. While further experimentation would have added a more adventurous bite to the music, the complex compositions by the former Coltrane sideman nevertheless set a standard for beauty and imagination that few of his contemporaries can match.

Soaring along right on time with Tyner's often furiously paced songs was a fine band, claiming the stand-out talents of drummer Eric Gravat and horn player Ron Bridgewater. The group provided a muscular balance to Tyner's own virtuoso performance, especially on the lenghty version of "Mes Trois Filles," from Tyner's latest album on Fantasy Records.

The show was opened by the Basic Black Band, a very fine and very tight five-man group which deserves a chance to realize its large sales potential on a major label. Led by Onaje Gumbs on keyboards, the band agreeably blended acoustic and electric instruments to produce a smooth, foot-tapping sound that, while not particularly daring, was entertaining and never dismissable. The Basic Black Band currently backs Nat Adderly, but should soon be well known on their own.

Jimmy Buffett/Amazing Rhythm Aces

SANTA MONICA CIVIC — Jimmy Buffett likes to joke about the old days when the Coral Reefers, his engaging and talented back-up band, did not exist except in his fertile imagination and lead-man Marvin Gardens had to get by with his female vocalists, Kay Pasa & Kitty Litter. Though his time has finally come with his fifth ABC album sailing up the charts, Buffett will probably never take his tongue out of his cheek for very long, for in spite of the fact that people are finally paying attention to this highly contemporary pop poet, success will never spoil a man who can say in the title track to his latest LP, "If I wasn't crazy, I would go insane."

If indeed Buffett is crazy, it's the stuff of neurotic genius, because few singers can evoke such a range of emotions in the space of an evening. He's the traveling troubadour when he narrates the moonshine-inspired "God's Own Drunk," an aging and pathetic smuggler on "Pirate Looks at 40," the lonely and alienated expatriate on "Banana Republics," and an impressionistic painter who draws a Mississippi sunrise with lyrical brush strokes on "Biloxi."

His Coral Reefer quintet provides a country-flavored and musically taut backdrop for Buffett's vocal leads, and it's entirely possible that there is no better harmonica man than "Fingers" Taylor, whose mouth-harp blowing and physical expressiveness can bring to mind not a single peer. But the charismatic catalyst that gently guides it all like a captain sure of the waters, is Buffett himself whose sincere humility was charmingly evident when Emmylou Harris sat in to provide harmony on "Defying Gravity," causing Buffett to say to the audience, "I'm as thrilled as you are that she's here."

Jimmy's old fans went away smugly saying, "I told you so," while his new-found friends wondered where the time went in a two-hour set that was still too short for many, judging by the tumultuous response that brought the band back for two encores. There is no doubt that Buffett's fans will soon become legion and he will receive the universal acclaim he deserves, but the upward struggle has made him sensitive, not bitter, and as he told this packed house in his closing song, "It's Been a Lovely Cruise."

ABC colleagues The Amazing Rhythm Aces opened the evening with a set that was short but sweet, and the perfect appetizer for the Buffett main course. Their unique synthesis of western swing, standard country & western and contemporary rock worked well here, where most of the crowd sat in awe of Russell Smith's gutsy vocal leads and the instrumental precision of this distinctive sextet.

Steve Gibbons/Cheryl Dilcher

THE WHISKY, L.A. — Steve Gibbons comes from the great rock and roll tradition of Birmingham. That's Birmingham, England, not Alabama, although his musical influence is notably from the great rock and roll heritage of the American south.

The Steve Gibbons Band is most comfortable with contemporary versions of fifties' rock and roll or original material with those markings. More than a hint of the primal rock and roll persuasion was evident in the last half of Gibbons' set, but was most obvious on Jerry Reed's "Tupelo Mississippi Flash," a vocal and physical tribute to Presley.

Gibbons, at home on the stage, demanded the audience's attention with his confident, roguish appearance. He moved about with energy and grace, carefully plotting his motions, and exhibited lean, muscular vocals that intertwined fittingly with his four-piece group.

Gibbons is a story-teller. He opened most songs with a talk/sing introduction over the taut instrumentation of the band, and continued in this unusual style on a few particular songs.

Spirited renditions of Chuck Berry's "Tulane" and Gene Vincent's "Get It" (seeing somewhat of a revivial as it is on the recent Dave Edmunds album also) brought the crowd to its feet and into the dancing mood.

The Steve Gibbons Band has been building a solid following among rock and roll fans since their exposure on The Who tour in 1976. With additional hard-hitting material to match their direct approach to their musical roots, they should attain that desired broad appeal.

Opening the show, The Cheryl Dilcher Band combined heavy metal with Dilcher's sure voice, but lacked stage presence. Dilcher, an able guitarist, shone best on blues numbers that required little physicality. Lead guitarist Steve Rass brought some needed intensity to the show in the solos.

THE PALOMINO, L.A. — The Palomino Club, the most rough hewn of the major Los Angeles venues, is a perfect setting for the country-style humor and free-for-all playing stance of Hoyt Axton. The audience is always primed for a premiere country act, and although the singer/songwriter has penned tunes that have been recorded and popularized by talents as diverse as the Kingston Trio and Tiny Tim, Steppenwolf and the Jazz Crusaders, he works equally as well as a live performer.

Tommy Mattola Discusses A Manager's Role In Music

by Jeffrey Weber

(First in a regular series of interviews with personal managers, appearing biweekly.)

LOS ANGELES — Tommy Mattola is currently riding a wave of success as manager of Daryl Hall & John Oates, Dr. Buzzard's Original Savannah Band and Stephen Dees. A former entertainer, Mattola formed Champion Entertainment after a long residency with Chappell Music.

Mattola views his position as a personal manager as one of intense personal involvement, not only in the area of long-range career strategy but in the day-to-day operation of his artists. "Not only do I take a very active part in the development of an artist, but I start right from the artist's creative inception and take it from that level to each and every stage and plateau of the career." As in the case of Hall & Oates, Mattola explained, "I worked with them, developing a label deal for them, booking their tours, assisting in song selections, even to the point of helping select the right producer for the making of their albums.

"After an album is completed, I will then put together the entire marketing and advertising campaign. We will go to the record company, lay it out for them, express the type of consumer print we would like, the copy, the way it should be laid out and the conceptual visual image that we want to create. In addition, we suggest merchandising tools that we want to utilize, marketing ideas as well as promotional concepts. The key then to successful management is thorough follow-up."

Close Relations

Besides a close relationship with record companies and the artists themselves, one of the most overlooked but important relations a manager can have is that with his fellow manager. "I have managed to develop very good friendships and working relationships with other managers. I respect them and that respect works to my advantage and to theirs as well. For example, Irving Azoff and I have developed a close working relationship and he has given me some Eagles dates (for Hall & Oates). When something presents itself where I can give him a hand, I will go out of my way to work something out." Managers can also get together and compare notes. "I can find out what is going on in his record company and he can find out what is going on in mine. The idea of managers working together really appeals to me."

Green Managers

In discussing the hazards of just walking into the job of a manager, Mattola explained, "Let's assume that a green manager comes to some new group and says, 'I want to manage you.' Let's assume further that as a result of that arrangement the group somehow has a number one record. This is conceivable because the record may be in the grooves and the time was just meant to happen for the record. What happens after that? The group turns around and there is no longevity developed in their plans. The manager doesn't know about booking tours and how to get the best yields or how to cut the best rental deals in the halls. He doesn't know which promoters to use or which agency to go with or whether he should go with an agency at all."

In discussing his own entry into the managerial area, Mattola stated he started as a musician and even had a contract with Epic for a couple of years. When he moved into management, Mattola said, "I watched very closely what everybody was doing and tried to do it better. I always tried to associate myself with someone much more important than me. I would then be able to watch those people work and would try to follow those patterns because they were working for them. After a while I developed my own style." Mattola's philosophy is to know what you are doing, and "go about it in the best possible way, putting forth your best efforts, and above all, trying never to offend anyone but at the same time trying to be as aggressive as hell."

There are basically two types of management firms. There are those that contract out for all services needed by the artist. These include public relations, agents, foreign tour support teams, attorneys and other necessary incidentals. The other side of the coin features a management concern where most of the entities needed to produce an act are gathered under one roof. Mattola is an advocate of the latter theory. "I like to keep complete and absolute control at all times and the only way I am guaranteed of that happening is to do it in-house. We still have an outside publicity firm but it is still like an in-house thing because my people are in that office every day."

Public Relations

Despite having the outside public relations firm, Mattola said that he was "not pleased with any public relations firm that I, as a manager, have dealt with to date. It just seems that all they do is take on as many accounts as they can, bill out as much as they can, and don't do a good job for a small roster. It winds up that we usually have to do all the follow through as well as the road press, which is really a pain in the neck. If the group has to do a sound check at a particular time and if things get carried away so their subsequent interviews are thrown off schedule, there has to be some kind of well oiled coordination. If the public relations firm you are working with doesn't really have it together as much as you do, it never gets done correctly. To date, it has never, in my opinion, been done correctly. We are using a new firm that has come highly recommended and they have assured me that they will work with me under the gun, the way I like to keep people, more or less. I think that it will turn out well. I hope within the next few months to have my own in-house public relations person as well, who will specifically do nothing but public relations for us and be in contact with the outside public relations firm on a daily basis. Having both is a good way to go. What it really comes down to is that I am a perfectionist and am not happy in leaving it in anyone else's hands. Even when I feel the person I am dealing with is competent, I'll always have people in my office check up — just because we are all human, all subject to error. Thank God for Randy Hoffman, my right arm, who is at the helm of day-to-day activities."

A major sidelight to any manager's job is the tension interplay between artist and manager, artist and record company and manager and record company. A manager must be able to successfully deal with all of these tensions. "The tension that artists and managers sometimes have is normal.

Four Star Music Litigation Stretches Coast To Coast

by Lola Scobey and Carmen Adams

NASHVILLE — The tentacles of the Four Star Music case stretch from the east to the west coast, encircling prominent names in Nashville, New York and Los Angeles. Debts ranging from three cents to over three thousand dollars are owed to songwriters like Hank Cochran, Dash Crofts, Snuff Garrett, Ferlin Husky, Marvin Rainwater, Hank Locklin, Glen Campbell, Hank Snow and Mickey Dolenz. Eight Nashville studios, the Country Music Association, Nashville record manufacturers, hotels, clubs and restaurants are owed paltry hundreds to substantial thousands. Nashville studio musicians are currently out $17,184 and AFTRA session singers are unpaid to the tune of $6,192. Nashville's largest bank loaned them over $3 million.

The tangible question of whether thousands of dollars owed throughout the Nashville music community will ever be paid, is merely one issue in the convoluted court cases arising out of the financial woes of Four Star Music, Inc. and the building at 49 Music Square West, formerly known as the Four Star Building.

At the heart of the matter is Joe Elmer Johnson, publisher, lawyer, record executive and idealist. Whether he will regain his famous Four Star catalog is in serious doubt. And he is due to be evicted June 5 from his luxurious perch in the penthouse atop the Four Star building. Nonetheless, he has not given up hope that he will repurchase the multi-million dollar catalog and studio. "I can get the thing off the ground," he still insisted last week.

The Catalog

Currently, the Four Star catalog, which includes such standards as "Am I That Easy To Forget," "Don't Let The Stars Get In Your Eyes," "Release Me," "Send Me The Pillow You Dream On," "In The Misty Moonlight" and "Tequila" among 3,000 other copyrights, is in a federal court Chapter XI bankruptcy. It is under the control of, as well as in the physical possession of, court appointed receiver Irwin Deutscher (Cash Box, May 7, 1977).

Deutscher, who at this point is "not willing to admit that anyone owns the catalog" is "very close" to submitting a proposal to the court whereby all parties would agree to let Deutscher and his agent run the company and receive money on its behalf until ownership can be determined.

"I think this catalog is a legitimate asset," Deutscher said. "In fact, through the efforts of a prominent New York attorney we have already recovered some money belonging to Four Star. The position we are taking on this is that we want this business to go forward while litigation is going on. Otherwise, by the time ownership is determined, the company might have eradicated into nothing."

Considering the complexity and volume of litigation involving both the catalog and the office building, this seems a real and present danger.

The primary case in the matter, filed December 28, 1976 in Davidson County Chancery Court, is known as "Four Star Music, Inc., JAT Music, Inc., J.J. Enterprises and Four Star Records, Inc., d/b/a Four Star Studios vs. First American National Bank, Guaranty Mortgage, Pippin Way, Inc. and Doctor R. Crants, individually and as successor trustee."

The principals in the case can be identified as follows:

Four Star Music, Inc. is a music publishing company. On January 18 Johnson testified that Four Star was owned by a 37-year-old Englishman named Allan Chivers to whom Johnson conveyed 100% of the Four Star stock in exchange for a power of attorney over certain property owned by Chivers. Prior to that transaction, Four Star was owned by Challenge Records Inc., which is owned by Johnson and his ex-wife Lavinia Johnson of Encino, California. Johnson's attorney G. Battle Claiborne recently alleged that Four Star is currently owned by Challenge Records.

JAT Music, Inc. is the principal subsidiary publishing company of Four Star Music and holds the copyright to "Tequila." Prior to being sold to Chivers along with Four Star, it was owned 50% by Four Star and 50% by Johnson personally.

J.J. Enterprises is a company which was formed to construct the Four Star office building. Johnson owns 50% and three other partners own one-sixth each: Ray Bell, Murray Parker and Jim Wall.

Four Star Records, Inc. is a record company owned by Johnson. Its status in the case is unclear at this point, but Johnson claims it is not involved in litigation surrounding the catalog and building. The company recently released a single on Billy Don Vernon and is holding four other singles for release pending the receipt of additional operating capital.

Guaranty Mortgage Company is a division of the First American National Bank in Nashville. It loaned J.J. Enterprises $2.5 million dollars to construct the Four Star building.

The First American National Bank, Nashville's largest bank, loaned Four Star Music $338,029.02, primarily for Four Star to loan to J.J. Enterprises to complete the building.

Doctor R. Crants of Nashville was originally hired by First American as an independent consultant on bad loans, one of which was the Four Star loan. At a later date he was employed as executive vice president of Guaranty Mortgage and named successor trustee of the deeds of trust securing the J.J. Enterprises and Four Star loans.

Pippin Way, Inc. is a Tennessee corporation formed on or near December 1, 1976 with assets of $1,000. The Pippin Way counterclaim states that one reason for forming the company was to buy the Four Star catalog, which it did on December 9, 1976 for $1 million.

Our country's going where country's rarely been.
In fact, one of our artists, Don Williams,
is England's latest superstar.
The boundaries
are finally coming down.
And to help the process along,
we'll be making a special merchandising effort
throughout April and May.
Country music belongs to the country
– the whole country.

JOHNNY DUNCAN (Columbia 3-10554)
A Song In The Night (2:41) (House of Gold Music — BMI) (B. Springfield)
This has to be the best of Johnny Duncan, and the smooth arrangement should find acceptance in all areas of programming.

JEANNE PRUETT (MCA MCA-40723)
She's Still All Over You (3:06) (Hall-Clement Pub./Maplehill Music/Vogue Music — BMI) (Wayland Holyfield/Bob McDill)
Jeanne carries this strong country-flavored song very well, and the producing hand of Chip Young adds just the right touch.

JOHNNY PAYCHECK (Epic 8-50391)
I'm The Only Hell (Mama Ever Raised) (3:10) (Tree Pub. — BMI) (M. Vickery/W. Kemp/B. Borchers)
The writing trio of Mac Vickery/Wayne Kemp/Bobby Borchers has given Paycheck a good follow-up to his previous single, "Slide Off Your Satin Sheets."

O. B. McCLINTON (ABC Dot DO-17704)
"Country Roots" (2:40) (CrossKeys Pub. — ASCAP) (O.B. McClinton)
O.B. debuts on ABC with producer Ron Chancey and this up-tempo song about his "Roots."

BEVERLY HECKEL (RCA JH-10981)
Don't Hand Me No Hand Me Down Love (3:27) (Chappell Music — ASCAP) (Charles Silver/Rory Burke)
Good material for this unknown artist who deserves a lot of recognition for a superb job.

CLIFF NELSON (Masterton MST 249004)
Let Me Take Care Of You (2:55) (ASCAP) (A. Kent-F. Stanton)
Programmers would do well to carefully screen this smooth, well mixed Cliff Nelson ballad. Nelson's vocal job, coupled with an excellent instrumental track, is quite pleasing, and the record's chances for playlists and jukeboxes are quite strong. A nice entry!

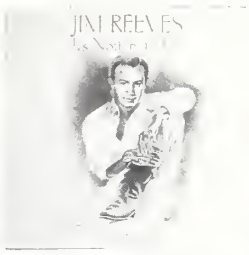
VASSAR CLEMENTS — The Vassar Clements Band — MCA MCA-2270 — Producer: Neil Wilburn — List: 6.98
This album is a wild card for across-the-board airplay. Patterned from live performances and recorded with Vassar's road band, excellent production captures the raw energy while maintaining high technical quality. The tunes are improvisations of classics like "Jessica" and "Black Magic," with new concepts like "Mixed Melody," "Free Flow" and "Necropolis" stylized with Clements' fiddle magic. Vocally, Clements has never sounded better. Country selections are "Lily Dale" and "Big City Woman." "Don't Mess With My Funk" also makes a statement for the album's soul.

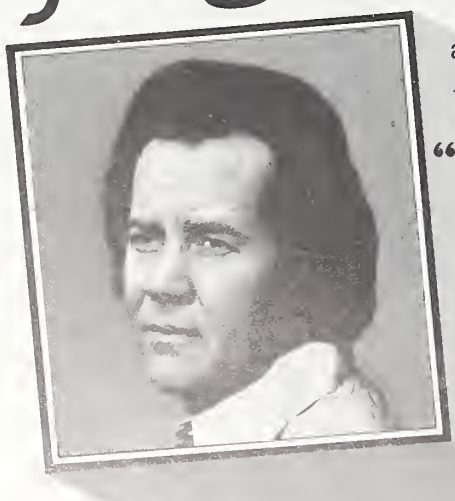


JIM REEVES — It's Nothing To Me — RCA APL1-2309 —A Producers: Chet Atkins, Anita Kerr — List: 6.98
All the ingredients of a nostalgic country album, with simple stories delivered with satin-throated soul and unfettered production. Three of Nashville's most tasteful music arrangers contributed to this collection of previously released material that set an influencial style attributed to Reeves' memory. "It's Nothing To Me," "The Talking Walls," "Gypsy Feet," "Trying To Forget" and "Deep Dark Water" are as meaningful today as when they were first recorded.

BANJOMAN — Sire SA-7527 — Producers: Richard G. Abramson, Michael C. Varhol
Featuring live performances of the Earl Scruggs Revue, Joan Baez, The Byrds, The Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, Doc & Merle Watson, Ramblin' Jack Elliot, this soundtrack signifies more than excerpts from a performance that happens to be a movie. It's a portrait of intimate relationships between artists and their music that borders on the legendary.

TAMMY WYNETTE — Let's Get Together — Epic PE 34694 — Producer: Billy Sherrill — List: 5.98
The inimitable Ms. Wynette delivers some high class heartbreak. Excellent material and sensitive interpretation, this production quivers with emotion. The title cut "Let's Get Together (One Last Time)," "It's Gonna Take A Long, Long Time," "Your Sweet Lies (Turned Down My Sheets Again)," "Cheatin' Is" and "I Can Still Believe In You" are special choices.

Tommy Overstreet's "City Girl" is very big in the country.



Tommy's had a long string of Top Ten singles, all about women. Now he's got a new one going to town.

23 in Billboard. 26 in Record World. And airplay all over.

"Don't Go City Girl On Me" (DO 17697)

Label Release Announcements

Casablanca To Issue $8.98 'Deep' Soundtrack

LOS ANGELES — Casablanca Record and FilmWorks in early June will release the soundtrack album from the upcoming motion picture "The Deep." The album, which will have a list price of $8.98 (for the single LP) features music written for the film by John Barry, composer of "Goldfinger," "Theme From Midnight Cowboy" and "Born Free," among others.

The soundtrack will be released in advance of the movie's June 17 release date in conjunction with what Casablanca says will be one of the most massive promotional and publicity efforts ever planned for a motion picture soundtrack.

Seven Vanguard LPs Released During May

NEW YORK — Vanguard Records' May releases have been led by "Friends," the latest album by Oregon, and "In Concert," a live album featuring duets by Oregon bassist Glen Moore and bassist David Freisan.

Also included among the seven albums Vanguard released in May were two albums from the label's Nomad Series, "African Journey, A Search For The Roots Of The Blues," and "Swedish Fiddle Music," as well as "Eric Kunz Sings German University Songs," released as a Vanguard twofer.

New Peaches Planned For St. Louis Market

ST. LOUIS — Peaches will open its third store here next month, in the suburb of Ballwin.

Frank Miko, vice-president of Nehi Distributors, which owns Peaches, said the store is tentatively scheduled to open June 17, although the opening might be delayed as much as a week.

The new store will be 14,000 sq. ft., about the same size as the other two Peaches "super stores" in St. Louis.

In addition, Miko reiterated that the chain is constantly looking at other sites for expansion, but declined to name locations under consideration. One long-rumored Peaches move is into Washington, D.C., a market almost diametrically opposite to relatively under-retailed St. Louis.

A spokesman at St. Louis' 3,000 sq. ft. Street Side Records, which hopes to open its second store in the near future, said Peaches has a beneficial effect on the market as a whole.

"They (Peaches) are the best thing that's happened in St. Louis," he asserted. "It [illegible] more people aware of records, and made us less cocky and more aggressive in our own operation."

The new St. Louis store will bring the regional Peaches total to 14 units.

Minelli Soundtrack LP Tops New UA Releases

LOS ANGELES — The soundtrack album from the soon-to-be-released motion picture "New York, New York," featuring Liza Minelli, will highlight the list of new LPs due this month from United Artists Records.

Other new releases from the label will include "Spirit Of A Woman" by American Flyer, "Peter Bliss" by the singer/songwriter of the same name, "Merrilee Rush" by the vocalist of the same name and "Golden Summer," a collection of surf and summer songs.

UA country artists with albums set for shipping include: Dottie West, with her label debut LP titled "When It's Just For You And Me"; Billie Jo Spears, whose new release is called "If You Want Me" and Nashville producer Larry Butler's LP "Larry Butler and Friends."

New Marley LP Out

LOS ANGELES — Bob Marley & The Wailers' latest LP "Exodus" has been released by Island Records while the band is on tour in Europe and is scheduled to return in early summer for a U.S. tour.

Loggins, Messina Gold

NEW YORK — "Best Of Friends," by Columbia recording artists Kenny Loggins and Jim Messina, has been certified gold by the RIAA. The album is the eighth in a row to be certified gold for the duo.

EAST COASTINGS — DOLLING UP NEW YORK — Her wig and makeup seemed bizarre and out of place in slick New York City, but a country queen's trappings could not veil the warm and affectionate personality that filled the Bottom Line in a rare appearance by Dolly Parton. She could even joke about the look, pointing to the rhinestone "Dolly" embroidered on her billowing gown, claiming that when she and friends Linda and Emmylou shared a dressing room, it was the only way she could tell their clothes apart! From a snappy rendition of Jackie Wilson's "Your Love Has Lifted Me," her set moved quickly through originals such as "Jolene," a song so universal that it has been covered by female vocalists from Olivia Newton-John to Patti Smith, who was down to hear the concert herself, in neckbrace. Dolly's superstar glow softened when she accompanied herself on dulcimer and guitar, and the effect was spine-tingling as she soloed on banjo for her old friend "Applejack" in a tale of childhood in the Smokies. Numerous celebrities flocked to the concert as well as the champagne party following at Windows On The World atop the World Trade Center in lower Manhattan. Probably the most notable, however, was Mick Jagger. He padded into the club, soaked in a sentimental mood, and the lady's magic seemed to touch him deeply. We expect that non-country audiences will steadily begin to respond the same way.

POSTPONED CONCERTS, CANCELLED CHECKS AND VICE-VERSA — We still can't be sure why Blondie did not play two Sunday shows at the Elgin Theater in New York's Chelsea district, newly opened to live rock. Elgin manager Roger Euster is suing the band for breach of contract, while Blondie manager Phil Leeds claims that the theater failed to live up to its agreement to provide a suitable sound system for the band, even after the group offered to defray part of the cost. Meanwhile, Euster contends that the band accepted his check for $3,000 in advance, and he is seeking an injunction to prevent them from leaving for a European tour . . . New York air is apparently no substitute for the ripe sea mist of Asbury Park, New Jersey. Neither mixture could qualify as mountain pure, but Southside Johnny's throat once again gave out on the eve of a May 16-17 Big Apple performance at the Bottom Line. Ronnie Spector, John and all the Asbury Jukes and Miami Horns will be there June 13 and 14 . . . The O'Jays concert originally scheduled for May 20 at the Spectrum in Philadelphia has been postponed until August 30.

TENTHS — This year of tenth anniversaries in popular music has already seen observations at radio stations WNEW-FM and WABX-FM, as well as Cream reissues and reported meetings of Messrs. Baker, Bruce and Clapton leaking from the Robert Stigwood office. Survival of individual artists who hit the scene around '67 is rare enough, but when a band hangs together for ten years, congratulations are due. True enough that only three members of the original Procol Harum — Gary Brooker, Barrie Wilson and lyricist Keith Reid — now remain, but much of the original spirit remains as well. These groundbreakers celebrated the tenth anniversary of their first record, "A Whiter Shade Of Pale," as well as their American debut while touring through New York. In commemoration, WB Records and promoter Ron Delsener presented the group a cake topped with candles during their recent performance at the Palladium, and they responded by playing three songs from back then: "Whiter Shade . . . ," "Conquistador," and the bluesy "Wish Me Well."

HI-FI HIJINX — Rock and rollers were allowed to roam the domains of their A&R sources in June's Circus Magazine, in a highly entertaining spread that examined the office sound systems used by record company and management executives. Daryl Hall & John Oates played it cool in the office of RCA staff producer Neal Portnow, while Brendan Harkin and Peter Sweval of Starz mugged, chomped and grovelled through Aucoin Management's listening room. The command performance, however, was delivered by Blondie's Deborah Harry (there she is again), who offered a couple of pensive stares while posing with stereo equipment. She sat at the desk of Private Stock president Larry Uttal, and her only comment was "If I had a system like this at home, I'd never go out."

SHORT AND TO THE POINT — The "Capitol Boogie Showdown" took place in Washington, D.C. on Saturday, May 21, featuring AWB, Slave and T-Connection. Sponsored by a D.C. educational/arts corporation called "Compared To What?, Inc.," the event was intended to benefit community and cultural projects for the area . . . Mr. Benjamin DoBose will join the ranks of legend on May 24 when Mayor Beame of New York presents him the deed to the Brooklyn Bridge, on location, at 10:30 am. Though the deed will be good for only one day, there will be a parade and festivities following. Music will be provided not by the Brooklyn Bridge, but a five member Brooklyn-born and bred group, the Shirts. Or should we call them the Shoits? . . . Can you top this? Led Zep bests record-holders the Who by drawing 76,229 paid attendees to the Silverdome in Pontiac, Michigan. Swan Song reports it happened April 30 . . . Sam Goody begins dealing Bowery rock mag "New York Rocker" as of the May 1977 issue . . . "Max's Kansas City — 1977" has completed recording for Ram Records. Artists include Lance, Philip Rambow, Andrew Pearson, The Brats, Just Water and Grand Slam, with a label distribution deal supposedly in the offing . . . Island artist Jess Roden going into the studio with producer Joel Dorn . . . Burton Litwin of the Belwin-Mills Publishing Corp. has entered into an agreement with Andre Saunders of Black Ice Productions and Love's Shadow Music for publishing involving Saunders' songs and masters produced by Black Ice. First fruits of the deal came with the sale of masters of the group Three Ounces of Love to Commodore Entertainment Corp. . . . "Hello Dolly" is being produced in a country version, with the original cast album to be released on Plantation Records.

DON'T TRIP — We suppose you thought Paul Stanley executed those effortless dance steps atop 7-inch platforms through some natural talent or something. Not so. Stanley risks his ankles, neck and life for the cause of good old rock and roll under the careful guidance of Aucoin Management's vice president of artist development Sean Delaney, who has staged all the company's acts. He will also choreograph a May 14 segment of Saturday Night Live featuring the women regulars and actress Shelley Duvall. Duvall will not be continuing any Twyla Tharp trip; that skit will be a rock takeoff entitled "The Stayaways."

AT FULL GALLOP — Sixteen-year-old wonder jockey Steve Cauthen has just recorded an album of country and western songs for, you guessed it, Bareback Records. If he can cross his track record over to the national charts, he'll soon own more than one Lincoln Continental.

POINTS WEST— TULSA TOASTS BREAD — Tulsa, Oklahoma's David Gates and the rest of Bread were buttered up nicely a couple of Mondays ago just before their jam at the Tulsa Assembly Center Arena. A resolution proclaiming it their day in Tulsa County was given the group by the County Board of Commissioners and Tulsa Tribune music critic Ellis Widner. Local radio station KELI supported the concert with on-the-air giveaways of t-shirts, concert tickets and loaves of bread, which no one thought was a crumby idea . . . The bighearted Marshall Tucker Band will play their second annual benefit concert for the Shriners' Crippled Children's Hospital on June 4 in their hometown of Spartanburg, S.C. The 3:00 and 8:00 p.m. shows will also feature fellow resident Marshall Chapman *. . . On Jazz

It was SRO all week for Dexter Gordon at the Village Vanguard in N.Y.C. Dex played five days and every set was sold out. The outpouring of enthusiasm for Long Tall and his playing is unique and hasn't really been felt since everything came together for Thelonious Monk some years ago. Woody Shaw was present once again and this time the rhythm section included George Cables, Rufus Reid and Victor Lewis. Quite obviously Dexter Gordon is the major jazz story of 1977 thus far.

The deep south has always been a barren area for jazz, both in terms of sales and exposure. Yet, news from Alabama brings evidence that the cotton curtain may finally be crumbling. WEXP radio in Gadsden now features nine hours of jazz daily.

Dave Matthews is producing Hank Crawford's next Kudu album at Electric Lady in New York. The usual crew of CTI/Kudu heavyweights (Jeremy Steig, Steve Gadd, Gary King, Eric Gale and the Breckers) will be on hand.

Newark, New Jersey will have a jazz week from June 6-12. Plans for the event include mall concerts, extended hours for jazz clubs and the appearance of major artists from Newark, as well as New York.

Benny Carter is back at Michael's Pub in N.Y.C. through June 11. Joining the master alto saxophonist are Ray Bryant on piano, Milt Hinton on bass and Bobby Rosengarden on drums.

Gary Burton, Dave Brubeck, Charlie Byrd and Tony Bennett were a part of a jazz weekend in Buffalo, N.Y. May 12-14. The Statler Hilton Hotel was the center of all the action, which also included a jam with Marian McParland, Buddy Tate, Vic Dickenson and Herb Hall.

Ralph McDonald will open a May 27 Felt Forum concert also featuring Bobbie Humphrey and Arthur Prysock.

ABC has recently come out with excellent reissues by the late bluesman Junior Parker and Count Basie. The Parker set is a collection of singles, most of which are new to LP, while the Basie is a live session done in Las Vegas and formerly on Dot. Lockjaw Davis and Sweets Edison are featured prominently, and it is probably the best late '60s Basie album that we've encountered.

Bassist Buster Williams and drummer Jimmy Madison will join Helen Merrill and John Lewis on their Japanese tour.

The latest from Capitol, a label becoming more involved with jazz every day, are: "Music Is My Sanctuary" by Gary Bartz and "Sweet Lucy" by trombonist Raul De Souza.

Pianist Billy Gault's first Inner City album "When Destiny Calls" features Michael Carvin and Joe Lee Wison.

Billy Hart, Burt Collins, Jimmy Knepper, and Rufus Reid are among Lee Konitz sidemen on his latest album, "The Lee Konitz Nonet" on Roulette.

The Pablo Jazz Festival, starring Ella Fitzgerald, pianist Oscar Peterson and guitarist Joe Pass, comes to Seattle, Washington for two concerts on June 16.

Urban jazz hits the suburbs May 29, when 18 of Chicago's jazz greats perform in concert at Governors State University, Park Forest South, Illinois. Artists to be featured include: Von Freeman, Billy Howell, and Bunky Green. bob porter

JAZZ ALBUM PICKS

AMOROSO — Joao Gilberto — Warner Brothers 3053 — Producer: Tommy LiPuma and Helen Keane — List: 7.98

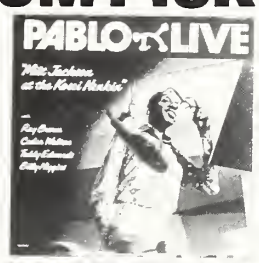
Miles Davis was once quoted as saying that Gilberto would sound good reading a newspaper. It's still true. Here, with rhythm and orchestra arranged by Claus Ogerman, he sings eight songs utilizing four different languages. We prefer his native Portuguese but the soft lilting sound of Brazilian music has always been best exemplified by this man. A must for jazz, AOR and MOR play.

FIRST TIME OUT — Warren Vache — Monmouth-Evergreen 7081 — Producer: Bill Borden and Bucky Pizzarelli — List: 6.98

It is a very good time for new jazz talent to be heard and young trumpet man Vache is among the most talented of the new crop. The album is half duo and half sextet (with Kenny Davern and a surprisingly good Connie Kay on hand) and Vache is engaging regardless of context. Although he is most frequently identified with traditional jazz, the program covers a broad range of material from Ellington through Clifford Brown. A young player to watch.

THE JAZZ COMPOSITIONS OF STAN KENTON — Creative World 1078 — List: 6.98

This collection of mostly familiar Kenton melodies tends to put his position as composer in perspective. The set tends to reinforce the opinion that Kenton's best work was done in the 1940s. We are quite partial to early classics such as "Eager Beaver" and "Artistry Jumps." The period covers a wide expanse of Kentonia ranging from 1945 to 1973. Some are stereo recreations while others are originals. Alas, CW still utilizes phony stereo conversions.



MILT JACKSON AT THE KOSEI NENKIN — Pablo Live 2620 103 — Producers: Ray Brown and Milt Jackson — List: 11.98

A 1976 recording in Tokyo with Teddy Edwards, Cedar Walton and Billy Higgins in addition to the performer/producers. Jackson has always been best in a setting that allows relaxed blowing with a minimum of arrangements. The players are all familiar co-workers and the Japanese audience is warm and appreciative. The eleven-tune program allows ample space for all, and the results are an ideal example of what good jazz is all about.

AFRO BLUE IMPRESSIONS — John Coltrane — Pablo Live 2620 101 — List: 11.98

This is the classic Coltrane quartet with McCoy Tyner, Jimmy Garrison and Elvin Jones recorded in Europe. While brevity was never one of Coltrane's attributes, most of these performances are short enough to insure jazz airplay, and only the twenty-one minutes plus "My Favorite Things" approaches the customary length of his later work. Despite the lack of precise details (where and when) this is a significant addition to the Coltrane legacy.

PASSENGERS — The Gary Burton Band With Eberhard Weber — ECM 1092 — Producer: Manfred Eicher — List: 7.98

This Burton album swings more than his other ECM works and is a refreshing change from customarily somber music on this label. Pat Metheny continues to impress with each outing and the use of Steve Swallow on bass guitar, in addition to Weber's bass, gives more body to the ensembles. "Sea Journey" is our favorite here and should be a good bet for jazz and AOR play.

Atlantic Conducts College Broadcasting Career Search

by Mike Falcon

NEW YORK — As an adjunct to its college radio survey, Atlantic Records is conducting its fifth annual job-hunting search for graduating college seniors who are involved in the radio broadcasting field. Atlantic sent out a bulletin, which was attached to the May 13 issue of the Atlantic College Radio Survey, requesting that students seeking a job in the commercial broadcasting field send the company a "mini-resume" on a postcard, stating the student's previous experience in radio, the geographic area in which he wishes to work, and an address or phone number where the prospective employee can be reached.

"The response has been excellent," stated Judy Libow, national college promotion manager for Atlantic. "Last year we had somewhere between 30 and 40 pages, with an average of 12 names to a page."

The book is sent to commercial stations across the country. The list also filters out to record companies, management firms and production houses, according to the executive.

Saltzman Named GM And VP At WVJN

NEW YORK — Herb Saltzman has joined WVJN/AM & FM, Newark, as executive vice president and general manager. He has also been appointed chief operating officer of Newark Broadcasting, the stations' parent company, and has obtained an option to purchase the two stations in heading an investment group that includes Donald Softness, a New York public relations and marketing specialist.

Saltzman was formerly vice president and general manager of WOR/AM, New York.

Radio Execs Meet The Artists

STATION BREAKS

JJ Jeffrey is the new program director at KYTE-FM, Portland. Jeffrey replaces Mike Davis, who remains PD of KYTE-AM.

Steve Christie and Jim Lewis are the new co-music directors at WSGA, Savannah. Christie comes to the station from WHCG (G-105), Metter, Georgia, and will do the morning drive show. Lewis has been with the station and will continue to do an air shift. Mac King, former MD, has left to join the Arista promotion staff.

David Ross, formerly with WISW, Madison, has been appointed PD and morning drive man at WISM, La Crosse. He replaces Dan Jackson, who leaves the station. Other changes have been made at WISM. Bob Karson, production director, is the new 9-12 pm jock; Neil Gavin, formerly 10-1 am man, is now doing the 12-3 pm slot; and Dick Baldwin is the new 10-1 am air personality.

The new MD and 10-1 pm jock at WJDX, Jackson, is Gary Semro.

Kevin Murphy, formerly with WNDE, Indianapolis, is the new 3-7 pm jock at WMPS, Memphis. Ron Jordan, formerly with WMPS, has joined the WNDE air staff as the 6-10 am man. Dave Denver, from WAZY, LaFayette, is the new 12-2 pm personality at WNDE.

Ron Jones-Dhanifu has been named

ALBUM CHART ANALYSIS

#5★ BEATLES

Attaining top five status after only two weeks is indicative of the impact that the Beatles still have. Over 50% of our reporting accounts reflected top ten action this week and a total of 85% of our accounts report top thirty sales. Large volume accounts reporting top ten sales are: Sam Goody, King Karol, Harvard Coop, Jimmy's, Harmony Hut, National Record Mart, Disc, Licorice Pizza, Wherehouse, Everybody's and Lieberman One Stop. Significant sales come from these majors: Western Merch., Music Plus, Tower/S.F./L.A., Dan Jay, Sounds Unltd. and City One Stop. Peaches reports top five on a national level while Korvettes reports top ten. Initial rack sales are overwhelming as indicated by a debut in the top thirty on the J.L. Marsh computer run. Top five sales are seen at the following: Cavages, Record & Tape Coll., Port Of Call, Soundtown, 1812, Father's & Sun's, Norman Cooper, Peter's, Waxie Maxie, Consolidated and Mile High.

#18★ STEVE MILLER

Great initial reaction is witnessed on this week's number one national breakout. Peaches and Camelot report top twenty action on a national level. Major volume accounts reflecting top ten sales are: Wherehouse, City One Stop, All Records, Dan Jay, Licorice Pizza, Music Plus, Everybody's and Vornado. Significant sales are seen at Harvard Coop, National Record Mart, King Karol, Lieberman One Stop, Tower/L.A./S.F., Sam Goody and Harmony Hut. Other accounts reporting strong initial sales response are: Mile High (1), Banana, Mushroom, Northern, Record & Tap Coll., 1812, Record Theater, Strawberries, Rose Records, Ambat, Franklin, Tower/Sac./S.D., Father's & Sun's, For The Record and Peaches/Atlanta/Ft. Lauderdale. Related chart info: "Jet Airliner" jumps 20-17 bullet on the Top 100 Singles chart.

#20★ FOREIGNER

This LP has grown every week and continues to do so. Having broken out of the Midwest, the LP has gained great acceptance in all regions. On a national level, Peaches and Camelot both report top ten sales while Korvettes reports top fifteen and Record Bar reports exceptional sales at their Midwest outlets. Initially slow at the rack level, Foreigner has picked up rapidly as indicated by a jump of 167-64 on the J.L. Marsh computer printout. Top fifteen action is reflected at the following large volume accounts: Jimmy's, Sam Goody, King Karol, Harmony Hut, Disc, Wherehouse, Tower/L.A. and Sounds Unltd. New Voice And New Sound For Inglewood From KACE

by Joe Nazel

LOS ANGELES — "Our biggest commitment is to remain alive and well," said ex-footballer and Urban League president Willie Davis of his new enterprise, KACE-FM in Inglewood, Ca. "Having come from an athletic background I know that people enjoy and support winners. We intend to be a winner."

Pushing 1600 watts of power in a community that is 40% black, 45% white and 15% other minorities, has not posed any great problems in programming for KACE. "I want KACE to be characterized as a good music station with an identifiable sound," said Davis. "It's hard to describe. Lovely music. Yes, that's what I would call it."

Unusual Music

After five weeks on the air, Davis claims amazing success in both advertising and audience response. Having initiated a "charter listener" promotion, giving decals and bumper stickers to listeners for comments and suggestions, Davis reports excellent results. Over 1100 letters have been received by KACE from listeners who endorse their programming.

"We are definitely a crossover station," Davis told Cash Box. "We play jazz, soul, R&B and pop. We are not music snobs. We have a unique and unusual variety of music and our audience has responded positively."

Davis credits his athletic career for many of his views. "When I was playing ball," Davis said, "I saw all kinds of people in the stands. They came to watch a good team play. They didn't come because I was black or another member of the team was white. We at KACE intend to be a good station. We feel that professionalism will give us credibility and aid us in attracting a wider variety of listeners."

'Let The People Decide'

It is PD Cal Shields' belief that there is room for a new approach to programming. People have been "closet listeners" in Shields' opinion. "Brothers are into Frampton and Steve Miller but black stations don't, as a rule, get into that kind of sound. There came a time when the powers that be decided that there should be black radio and there should be white radio, a segregation in sound. If a cat wanted to dig the other sound, the white sound, he had to slip and listen. But no more. People are coming out of their closets and listening to those stations that give them everything they want to hear. And that's what KACE is out to do. We are letting the people decide."

Shields wants only quality music for his listeners. "It's not a question of black for black's sake or white for white's sake, it's about quality. Credit should be given where credit is due and that has nothing to do with color.

"As a programmer I have decided to be a leader and not a follower. I'm not that concerned about what the other stations are doing. We will constantly keep abreast of what the people in our audience are into.

"Every record blends into and flows with the others in our programming. There's a statement being made by the music and that's how it should be."

Berry Gordy, Motown Exec, Awarded Key To Tuskegee

by Joe Nazel

LOS ANGELES — In recognition of all that Berry Gordy has done for the Commodores and for the growth of black consciousness, Mayor Johnny Ford presented him with the key to Tuskegee, Alabama, at a cocktail party given at the Pacific Design Center on May 16.

After Mayor Ford's presentation, Mayor Tom Bradley of Los Angeles, addressed the gathering and presented Ford with a plaque in the name of the city of Los Angeles. "I am pleased to be in this city," Mayor Ford said as he received the award. "I feel that I am a part of Los Angeles. Being honored in this manner by Mayor Bradley is indeed a step forward for Tuskegee, Alabama." He went on to extend an open invitation to all present to visit his southern city.

Coretta Scott King, wife of the late Reverend Martin Luther King, echoed Mayor Ford's sentiments as she presented each member of the Commodores with a Brotherhood Citation in the name of the Martin Luther King Center For Social Change.

"I am honored to be here on this stage with such distinguished fellow Alabamans," Mrs. King said. "I'm very proud to join in this salute to the Commodores. A salute which is so richly deserved."

Addressing the successes of Motown Industries under the direction of Berry Gordy, Mrs. King said, "I am proud of what Motown has achieved. I think that we all should be proud. When one of us is elevated, when one of us succeeds, our cause is advanced and we are all enhanced by it. We should all be a part of that."

Reflections 'N Black

Phillppe Wynne is putting the final touches on his first solo album, "Starting All Over."

The Crusaders are beginning a national tour to promote their new album, "As Free As The Wind," scheduled for end of the month release.

Brother Johnson's latest LP, "Right On Time," has been certified gold.

Bareback Records is releasing a special 12" disco version of Beverly Crosby's single, "You Can Be My Lover."

The Ohio Players are slated to headline the opening series of KGFJ's Soul Search '77 at the Shrine Auditorium (May 28 at 7:30).

Norman Conners, while appearing at Smuckers in New York, was joined on stage by Phyllis Hyman who thanked him for giving her her start.

Cecil Hale has left WVON in Chicago.

Wico Corporation Enters The Home Pinball Game Market With "Big Top"

CHICAGO — Wico Corporation, long-time supplier to the coin-operated amusement industry, has entered the home entertainment market with the introduction of its electronic home pinball game called "Big Top."

In describing the various features of the new model, the 37-year-old firm's game division manager Frank Happ said, "Big Top has the scoring, lighting, play action and skill shot features found on commercial games, but will cost substantially less." He indicated that the game would retail for about $450, and will carry a 90-day limited warranty backed up by nationwide service. It will be manufactured in the company's 85,000 sq. ft. game division plant in San Marcos, California.

Big Top is a solid-state electronic machine with digital display board. The cabinet construction, which features steel legs with levelers, is of ½ inch and ¾ inch wood composite. Dimensions are 63 inches high, 43½ inches long and 20½ inches wide. Shipping weight is 143 pounds.

Other model features include: electric ball return, dual chime sounds, automatic ball count, spinning target, three bulls-eye targets, two action kickers and two electrically operated individual flippers.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Frank Happ at Wico, 6400 W. Gross Point Road, Niles, Illinois.

Sega Enterprises Inc. Reports A Net Loss For 3rd Quarter Of Fiscal 1977

REDONDO BEACH, CA. — Quarterly figures released by Sega Enterprises, Inc. showed the company had a net loss of $615,000, or 32 cents per share, during the third quarter of fiscal 1977. This compares with net earnings of $640,000, or 34 cents per share, for the same period in fiscal 1976.

The company reported revenues of $7.7 million for the third quarter ended March 31, 1977. This is an increase over revenues of $5.7 million for the same period last year, with the gain reflecting the inclusion of Muntz Manufacturing and Kingdom of Oz businesses acquired during the fourth quarter of fiscal 1976, the report noted.

The results include a foreign exchange translation gain of $57,000, or 3 cents per share, in the 1977 quarter and a translation gain of $73,000, or 4 cents per share, in the restated fiscal 1976 period.

Net earnings of $74,000, or 4 cents per share, during the nine-month period ending March 31, were down from $1.38 million, or 73 cents per share, during the comparable nine-month period last year. Revenues for the nine months were $22.1 million, up from $17.8 million in 1976.

Net earnings included a foreign exchange translation gain of $281,000, or 15 cents per share, for the first nine months of fiscal 1977 and a translation loss of $248,000, or 13 cents per share, in the restated 1976 period.

The report said that the third quarter loss reflected disappointing sales of Sega's U.S. amusement game product line during the key spring selling season. The company said it has consequently lowered selling prices and reduced the carrying amount of game machines in inventory.

Other Operations

Japanese operations were profitable for both the quarter and nine months, but by comparison with last year's results operating income was lower in Japan due to lower gross profit margins and increased selling, general and administrative expenses.

The company further indicated that during the quarter it consolidated the

Bally Tabs Weinberger To Head It's Atlantic City Hotel-Casino Subsidiary

CHICAGO — William S. Weinberger will soon become president and chief executive officer of the Bally Manufacturing Corp. subsidiary that will operate its Atlantic City, New Jersey hotel-casino complex, announced Bally president William T. O'Donnell. Weinberger is currently president of Caesars Palace Hotel in Las Vegas.

Weinberger is expected to spearhead the construction and development program that follows Bally's recently announced agreement to acquire the Marlborough/Blenheim Hotel in Atlantic City.

"Bally is fortunate in obtaining the services of Billy Weinberger," O'Donnell said. "He is regarded as perhaps the most outstanding executive in the country in the operation of a hotel casino complex. With him in a leadership position, we believe the success of the Bally venture in Atlantic City is virtually assured."

Weinberger has served as president of Caesars Palace Hotel since 1968. He is also currently a member of the Nevada State Gaming Policy Board.

VALLEY'S 1977 LINEUP — As the standard of the Valley coin-operated pool table line, the "Big Cat" (far left) is constructed to withstand the most rugged treatment on location, and yet is noted for requiring a minimum of service. The 1977 model, while containing all of the proven features synonymous with Valley tables, is also noteworthy for its new physical design dominated by the color "Makoru." The Big Cat is available in four models of various dimensions, to accommmodate specific space requirements on location. Standard equipment includes the Valley Cat's Eye cue ball. Newly designed cabinet, legs and down corners are among the visual enhancements on the latest model in Valley's patented bumper pool line, the "Bob Cat" (middle). Designated model B-54, the table is regulation size and offers the exciting play concept of pool and pinball. Features include one-piece ¾-inch slate playfield, aluminum corners, American-made pure gum rubber cushions, reinforced billiard cloth, laminated plastic on exposed surfaces, legs with levelers and anodized aluminum bumpers. At right is the new Valley Model No. 85 "Pro-Soccer" table for 1977. The playfield is reversible tempered glass. Chrome-plated rods made from stainless steel tubing and men made of high-impact plastic for accurate counter balance are but a few of the quality features incorporated into this model to make it appealing to the player and easy to maintain for the operator. The bar and ash tray holders, as pictured here, are removable.

[illegible] very shortly here in town is the summer Consumer Electronics Show, which will [illegible] in McCormick Place and McCormick Inn. Dates are June 5 thru 8, with attendance estimated at between 50,000 to 60,000 and more than 700 exhibits to be featured. The winter version, held in January at the Conrad Hilton, drew significant coinbiz representation on the spectator level, and some manufacturers — among them Atari, Bally and Sega — even hosted exhibits. The summer event will probably draw even more from our industry, with current emphasis so strongly directed to the home market. Besides which, the June CES is notably the largest of the association's two annual shows.

SPOKE WITH HANK HAYES, coin-op products mgr. for Brunswick's Briarwood Division, and learned that the 4-year production run of the firm's "Air Hockey"game will come to an end this week — and they're planning to mark the occasion in ceremonious fashion as the very last model comes off the assembly line. This will not be the end of "Air Hockey" itself, as Hank noted. Far from it, he said, with the kind of sales record this model has racked up.

STERN ELECTRONICS INC. marketing director Stephen Kaufman is mapping out a heavy traveling itinerary which will take him out of the home territory and into a number of distributor offices across the country. Steve launched his schedule with an Indianapolis trip where he visited both J.J. Distg. and the Empire Dist. branch out there — to discuss many of the exciting future plans of Stern Electronics. As for the present, the firm's "Rawhide" 4-player pingame is in full production at the plant — and being very well received by the trade, Steve noted.

HAROLD SCHWARTZ, vice president-phonographs at World Wide Dist., notes that the recently inaugurated April promotion on the Seeburg "Sunstar" phonograph has met with such astounding success that it's been extended through the month of May. A definite case of demand exceeding supply was the initial result at the onset of the promo — and is still the case as it goes into the second month.

WICO CORP. of suburban Niles, Ill., is premiering its first electronic pinball game for the home market. The name of the model is "Big Top" (further details elsewhere in this issue).

WATCH FOR "SCORE," new "love machine" from Exidy, Inc. — or is it a "chase game?" Call Paul Jacobs for specifics. And we'd like to extend belated birthday greetings to Paul Jacobs, who celebrated on May 11.

CALIFORNIA CLIPPINGS

Playboy magazine gives a considerable plug to the video electronics industry in its June issue. For openers, there is an interview with Atari founder Nolan Bushnell on the topic "How I Handled Sudden Money." Other interviewees include actor Telly Savalas, author William Peter Blatty ("The Exorcist"), golfer Johnny Miller, playwright Neil Simon and porn star Marilyn Chambers. Bushnell, meanwhile, is quoted as saying that he decided against just investing his new found wealth, traveling around the world and "being a bum," because "it turned out that my work was just too much fun." And what does he like most about being successful? "I like the idea of running a company, a business, a manufacturing concern," he told Playboy contributor Robert Kerwin. Bushnell said that he puts in 12 to 14 hours a day, adding "I love it." Besides the Bushnell interview, Playboy also spotlights several home video pieces in a striking pictorial layout titled "Earning Your Video Letter." Included in the spread are models manufactured by Coleco Industries, RCA, Fairchild, Universal Research Laboratories and, of course, Atari.

SPOKE WITH CIRCLE INTERNATIONAL'S Don Edwards who had lots of good things to say about Williams' "Liberty Bell" pingame, Seeburg's "Hutch" phono and Gremlin's "Co-Motion II." Don added that Gremlin's new "Hustle" video game is already back-ordered — a good sign that he traced back to the company's unique "Gremlin Girl" promotion. "It was a tremendous boost," he said.

DATELINE SUNNYVALE, CA. — home of Meadows Games, where marketing director Lila Zinter offered a few guarded comments about the company's new game, which was previewed at this year's Ohio State Assn. convention. "We're currently testing the piece," she said, "and we should begin production by June 1." Meanwhile, according to Ms. Zinter, the Meadows' factory has been busy turning out "bread and butter" models such as the "4 in 1" cocktail table and "Lazer Command."

EASTERN FLASHES

Robert Jones Int'l. Syracuse is enjoying the pleasant effects of heavy arcade buying, as Jack Shawcross told us, so everyone's mighty busy out there. Jack said the recently arrived Bally "Night Rider" 4-player pin is a super seller. The model is produced in both an electromechanical and an electronic version, and it appears that the latter will ultimately rank as top choice. As Jack pointed out, many operators are reluctant to select the electronic unit at first; but, upon discovering it is "less complicated" and "easier to service," quickly reconsider and buy it after all. "Bally has really done an excellent job on this piece," he added. RJI is presently awaiting a new shipment of "Sea Wolf" — and selling a lot of Midway's "Boot Hill" and "Double Play." The distrib has confirmed the date of June 16 for an Automatic Products school and will shortly announce June dates for a Bally-Midway session . . . Pat Bilotta of Bilotta Dist. in Newark notes that he has just added Playmatic to his product lineup — and he is personally much impressed with the firm's "Speakeasy" pinball machine, which tested out as a big "money maker." On the subject of music equipment, Pat said a new shipment of Wurlitzer phonos is expected very shortly — and quite a few orders are awaiting it . . . Williams' "Liberty Bell" and "Grand Prix" pins are definitely in the spotlight at See-North Dist. — Albany, along with the United "Thunderbird" shuffle alley — and that's the good word from Bill Prutting. He said Seeburg phonographs are also selling well and noted that ops are reporting that much plus business is being generated by the new "Hutch" model, which is designed for locations desiring an un-jukebox look . . . The recent set of Wurlitzer schools, conducted by C.B. Ross and sponsored by Southern Music Dist. of Florida, attracted more than 50 at each of the two sessions. Southern hosted the schools to accommodate customers in Jacksonville, Tampa and the surrounding area.

STATE ASSOCIATION NEWS

[illegible] Music Operators of Michigan recently commended one of its members for his singular efforts in combating an unfavorable city ordinance which required the "hiring of a guard to supervise an arcade." The member is Sanford Sulkes, president of San-Ray Corp. in Novi, Mich. who, as a reputable businessman and respected member of his community, was able to convince the city council to rescind the ordinance and also convey to them the positive side of arcade operation. MOM cited the incident as an example for other operators to follow when threatened by discriminatory ordinances or bills and stressed the fact that a solid standing in one's own community will do much to pave the way for discussion, as well as overcome any unfair image problems. MOM, by the way, recently concluded a most successful annual convention in Kalamazoo and, in its third year of existence, has developed into a model state association . . . West Virginia Music & Vending Assn. members are being asked to consider the possibility of holding a state-wide coin-operated pool tournament. In spelling out the advantages of such an endeavor, the association notes that such tournaments are known to stimulate pool table collections and are arranged so that weekly location competition is held on the slowest or off night of the week. Also on the planning board for the West Virginia group is a Kurz Kasch service school which association president W.T. "Spec" Cruze considers to be a must. With more manufacturers converting to microprocessor, logic board and the like, Cruze said, "we don't want to be out in left field when it comes to keeping our equipment operating . . ." The ICMOA annual meeting which officially gets underway on Friday, June 17 at the Hospitality Motor Inn in St. Louis, Mo., will be preceded by a welcoming cocktail party on Thursday evening (16) in the president's suite. Full details of the various business meetings and planned social activities will be outlined in the Illinois group's forthcoming newsletter.

Four Star Music Litigation Stretches From Coast To Coast

dollar controversy developed, it is necessary to go back to 1951 when 23-year-old Joe Johnson moved to Nashville to pursue a law degree at Vanderbilt University. Upon graduation from law school, Johnson went to work for Columbia Records, then in 1955 piled all his belongings in a '54 Ford and moved to California to manage the publishing operations of cowboy singing star Gene Autry.

In 1960 Johnson and Autry became partners and purchased the Four Star Sales Company from Bill McCall for $150,000. They reorganized their publishing operation under the name Four Star Music. Johnson had earlier purchased Autry's interest in a company called Challenge Records, and, in 1963, bought out Autry's 70% interest in Four Star for just under $500,000. Johnson, doing business as Challenge Records, was now owner of Four Star.

In 1971 Johnson moved back to Nashville, but the Four Star headquarters remained in California. Johnson apparently became very excited about the potential of Nashville during the next two or three years. He envisioned it as a major recording center equal to or surpassing New York and Los Angeles. More importantly, he viewed it as a future videotaping, television and movie capital.

During this period he conceived the idea of a six story office building, complete with three state-of-the-art studios, including video taping equipment throughout, a small television and/or radio production studio, a health food restaurant, a penthouse and a parking garage with a helicopter landing dock on top. This would be a facility where top rock groups could land incognito, hole up in the building for weeks; record, film and eat to their heart's content without ever seeing the light of day; then board the copter and fly away.

Loans Were Obtained

In March of 1974 Johnson apparently convinced leading figures in Nashville banking circles of the viability of this idea, and arranged the first of four loans from First American/Guaranty Mortgage. On March 14, J.J. Enterprises borrowed $1.8 million from Guaranty Mortgage. A deed of trust on the property secured the loan.

In January 1975, Johnson moved the headquarters of Four Star Music from California to Nashville.

On April 13, 1975, J.J. Enterprises borrowed an additional $700,000 from Guaranty Mortgage, raising the total loan to $2.5 million. A second deed of trust on the property secured this loan.

In August 1975, with construction lagging and inflation rampant, Johnson approached First American about more money. The bank claims that at this point J.J. Enterprises was generally in arrears on its loans, having failed to make interest payments on the notes, to complete construction in a timely and workmanlike manner, to obtain adequate leases with future tenants, GRATEFUL *— United Artists recording artist Kenny Rogers (c) and Hylton Hawkins (r), assistant C&W promotion director for UA, thank Hal Jay, music director at WMC in Memphis, for breaking Rogers' his single "Lucille." and to keep the construction within costs. Nonetheless, citing names like Frank Sinatra and concepts like a "World Olympiad Of Music," Johnson managed to convince the bankers that he could bring the project to completion.

Thus, on August 25, First American loaned Four Star an additional $250,000. As security Four Star pledged its mechanical royalties, and assigned to the bank its account with the Harry Fox Agency.

Out of this loan, Four Star was to loan J.J. Enterprises $230,000 to use toward completion of the building. The bank claims, and Johnson denies, that the remaining $20,000 was to be used by Johnson to settle a long-running California court case between Bill McCall and Four Star. Johnson has been in litigation with McCall since he and Autry purchased Four Star Sales in 1960, and the bank wanted this case settled.

In April 1976 Johnson's divorce from Lavinia Johnson was finalized.

Needed More Money

In July of 1976, needing still more money, Johnson approached the bank again. The bank at this point was extremely apprehensive over Johnson's ability to complete the project, but was again convinced by Johnson. On July 29, First American loaned Four Star Music $88,029 and agreed to disperse over $300,000 in undispersed funds from the March 15 loan. But the bank insisted that the Four Star catalog be put up as collateral against the entire amount owed both to Guaranty Mortgage and to the bank. Johnson put up the catalog and promised that the building would be completed by August 30, 1976.

Also at this time, Doctor R. Crants, who had now become vice president of Guaranty Mortgage, was appointed successor trustee over the deeds of trust held by Guaranty Mortgage, and was thus in a position to determine both the bank's and the mortgage company's future actions in the case.

About two weeks later, on September 17, 1976, in a letter to Crants, an official of Four Star revealed that the company had the following additional liabilities: a $129,000 loan and a $396,000 equipment lease (for recording and videotaping equipment) from the Commerce Union Bank in Nashville, and an estimated $110,000 advance against performance royalties from BMI.

On October 13, 1976 Johnson made an agreement with Walter Hofer of the Copyright Service Bureau, Ltd. in New York to administer the catalog.

At this point, the periods of cooperation between Johnson and the bank ceased, and the real controversies began. Citing default on the loans with Guaranty Mortgage and the bank, the bank foreclosed on the building and catalog. On November 30, 1976 Crants conducted an auction sale at which Guaranty Mortgage purchased the building, on which it held loans of $2.5 million, for $1.6 million.

The following day, on December 1, 1976, First American sold the Four Star catalog to Pippin Way, Inc. for $1 million. The bank financed the sale and took the stock of Pippin Way as collateral. The bank later stated that although they discussed purchase of the catalog with many interested buyers, only Pippin Way would stick by their offer without requiring the bank to indemnify them against possible legal action against the catalog. The bank also stated that employees of Four Star attempted to "chill" any potential purchases of the catalog.

Upon buying the catalog, Pippin Way assigned the administration of mechanical royalties to the Harry Fox Agency. Thus, both Hofer and Fox were attempting to issue licenses for the company.

Several months later Hofer filed a report to the court in which he stated: "It is my feeling that this is a very valuable catalog . . . As an example . . . in December of 1976 I was able to obtain an agreement from another of my foreign clients whereby they were willing to advance to Four Star $400,000 against the foreign rights and half the domestic publisher's share of profits. At this time . . . I was in possession of $200,000 in escrow." He added that during one month in 1977, Four Star issued 20 mechanical licenses, including licenses for records by artists such as Willie Nelson, Dolly Parton, Tompall Glaser, Boots Randolph and Chubby Checker.

At the end of the month, on December 28, 1976, Johnson filed a suit against the mortgage company, the bank, Pippin Way and Crants, alleging that foreclosure was not necessary to protect the lenders and was the result of a conspiracy on the part of these parties to obtain the catalog at a bargain price.

According to John Bailey, III, attorney for First American, the owner of Pippin Way is Bill Beasley. Johnson states that he was told by his former attorney John Chambers that Pippin Way was owned by songwriter Bobby Russell, Dave Burgess and attorney COUNTRY CONVERTS — UA recording artists Steve Lawrence and Eydie Gorme are shown with producer Larry Butler (right) during a recent recording session in Nashville. Originally in town only as a spectator, Ms. Gorme was so impressed with the musicians and the Nashville sound that she decided to cut some duets with her husband.

H. McKinley Marlowe. Crants was at one time employed by Russell as a business manager on a monthly fee basis. Marlowe, now serving as attorney for Pippin Way and its agent in the catalog purchase, was formerly employed by Crants to help investigate the assets of Four Star.

The bank denies a conspiracy and cites long-suffering patience with Johnson's repeated defaults. Pippin Way, although admitting that purchase of the catalog was one reason for its formation, denies a conspiracy. It further alleges fraud on the part of Johnson in representing the assets of the catalog and questions whether it is even worth $1 million in light of all the liabilities which have been uncovered. Crants denies that he has any financial interest in Pippin Way. And Bailey states "to my knowledge" there has never been any owner of Pippin Way except Beasley.

Also late in December of 1976, Johnson made the bizarre sale of Four Star Music to Alan Chivers. Through Challenge Records (which is currently still in business leasing old masters for TV hit packages), Johnson conveyed 100% of the stock of Four Star to Chivers in return for a power of attorney over a farm and other property Chivers owned. Why?

When the bank sold the catalog to Pippin Way, they retained a 30-day option to reclaim the catalog and return Pippin Way's money. Apparently Chivers convinced Johnson that he could persuade the bank to reclaim the catalog and sell it to him for $1.5 million (which he would raise), whereupon he (Chivers) would return the catalog to Johnson. In fact, a bill of sale between the bank and Chivers was signed. But the bank says they never received any money from Chivers, and the Pippin Way sale stands.

Johnson, who still retains his title as president of Four Star, explains the transaction in this way: "Chivers was in California and overheard my former engineer Bob Monroe telling a studio owner in Pasadena about the situation here. He got on the phone to me and said, "I'd like to help you. I am accustomed to helping those who are fighting the establishment.' And I said, 'Welcome aboard. Now, what do you want from this?' He said, 'All I ask in return is somewhere down the line, if I have another friend that needs your help, that you'll come without question — you'll drop what you're doing and come help this man out of his problem.' Well, that's a beautiful thing. I love it."

Option To Buy

"I had an option from the bank to buy the catalog back at $1.5 million by the end of December. About the 15th of December when Chivers came in, I'd spent two weeks exploring every possibility. I'm in e position where I have to trust everybody who tells me they can help," Johnson added.

Although Johnson says Chivers "tricked the bank" by never coming across with the money, he tends to look on him somewhat benignly because he kept the catalog physically out of the hands of Pippin Way. Unknown to the court, and Johnson claims, unknown to him, Chivers removed the catalog from the Four Star building and concealed it.

Bank Repossessed Equipment

Meanwhile, in January of 1977, Commerce Union Bank repossessed all the studio equipment and video tape equipment in the building, leaving it stripped down to office space and unusable studio space.

On February 1, 1977, Guaranty Mortgage sold the Four Star building, which it purchased for $1.6 million, to Burton R. Signer for $1.8 million. The bank had now recovered $2.8 million for the sale of the building and the catalog. Johnson's partners in J.J. Enterprises were considered absolved of their debt, and only Johnson is held personally liable for any debts which remain.

Signer proceeded to open an office on the fourth floor of the Four Star building for an investment company in which he is associated with Ray Barr, Dean Martin's uncle and Frankie Layne. Through his leasing agent Richard Fulton, Jr., son of Nashville mayor Richard Fulton, Signer vocalists of nearly equal quality, only a handful have the confident homespun attitude and comfortable delivery of Axton. And fewer have the repertoire of high quality original works from which to draw. Alternating between ballads and upbeat selections, between recent tunes and old favorites, Axton's eager enthusiasm was quickly taken up by the audience. "Geronimo's Cadillac," "Never Been To Spain" and "Little White Moon" all found eager ears, although "You're The Hangnail In My Life" was the obvious favorite. Even Axton seemed at a loss for words when he received a long round of applause for the tune, the opening cut on his new album.

Axton's backup band is a top blend of musicians. "I call them the Bananas Band because they're all bananas," explained Hoyt. Jana Lee's precise backup vocals were especially effective, softening the rougher approach of Axton when it was needed, but convincing in the more powerful selections as well.

Tommy Mattola Discusses Managerial Role

When you take on an act, you, in essence, form a marriage contract with that act and you're not always going to agree. Every manager in the business has had his share of problems with an artist (and vice versa). What you really have to do is get yourself able to look inside that artist's head and try to understand what is troubling him and try to make him happy while at the same time explain to him the facts of life relating to the problems that exist in this business and how he can communicate his art to the music business and to the public by creating the least amount of tension between himself and everyone he deals with."

Direction Charts

Once Mattola has taken a group under his managerial wing, the first problem of the manager, he feels, is to chart the group's direction. "If the act has no live potential, in 99 out of 100 cases, I would not want to be involved. Once their live potential is determined and we have some decent tapes, the next move is to set up a live situation where I can go in and evaluate with the band what they are presently doing live, and then break it down and direct it in the best manner that I think it should go. We would then set up five or six songs so we could do a live audition for the record companies."

After the group has been seen, liked and signed by a record company, the next move would, in Mattola's mind, be to go through all the material and then decide which of the songs they have at the present time that would be the best to record. The next decision involves whether to release a debut single with no album yet or to go ahead and release a debut album. The answer to Mattola is obvious. "I wouldn't even consider releasing a single first. The only way a single enters my mind is after the LP is finished. I would then pull a single from the album as it is the natural vehicle to help launch the LP."

No Sales?

What happens if the record doesn't sell? "If the album doesn't sell, you as a manager, have to sit down and evaluate what you have done, look at all the advertising, the merchandising and the touring that you have set up and you try to evaluate why it did not happen. In my opinion, touring immediately after the album is released is an absolute necessity. There is no better way to break an artist than to take your LP and set up a giant campaign behind it and then have the group hit every important market with a well-timed push on radio spots, having the album appear in store window displays and receiving adequate press. That is how you create an interest in a particular market. You force people to get involved with the artist. You bring people down to the live gig in the town and you start to develop a following. After you have gone through all these motions and have found them to be unsuccessful, then you had better evaluate why, to determine if what you have done was right for the group. You then decide if you want to go back into the studio and make another album. You reevaluate all your steps. It's like starting all over again. If you believe and you think that artist has got what it takes, you stick with it."

Tours

Another consideration is the foreign tour. "Television plays probably one of the most important roles in breaking an artist in Europe and in the UK. You must be able to motivate the foreign licensees and wholly-owned subsidiaries of the record companies. I really wonder how many managers are sophisticated enough to handle foreign tours."

Careful examination of stateside tour routes must also be made to achieve maximum results. "The various routes available achieve different results. For example, in Los Angeles, The Roxy is the best club route to go with. If you have a very contemporary rock group, then the Whisky would be the place. On the other hand, I may go to a promoter and ask for a date for my act. I would then want them to open for another group, let's say at the Santa Monica Civic. It all depends on the artist, on how much success you're having in that market already in the way of airplay or how well the single is doing. I usually like to saturate a market with an artist while he is in town. This includes having all the trades, radio and the press down at the performance.

Image Building

"What I work on next is building an image for the group. It is very important that you create the right image for the group you're handling. Whatever that image is, you have to get out and explain to the public what it is you are talking about. With new acts, creating an image is like a chess game. You must know the right places to have the group and it must be at the right time. The reason I go through so much of this public image building is in the back of my mind I don't like to rely on singles. Having a single is of the utmost importance but if you approach a campaign with a view of not concentrating on a single, making sure your artist has enough live credibility right from the start, you will build a very strong base with a concert ticket buying audience and those people will stick with you till you break through with a single."

Once the album and the group receive a modicum of success, the next goal to shoot for is to devise a way in which the available audience for the group is expanded, while retaining the audience already garnered. Expanding the audience helps move the group up the charts. "Once the group has a top 50 single with a bullet, with tours doing nicely, there are some very definite things one can do to make sure the album goes top ten. It is now up to good record promotion as it looks like you are well on your way. As far as an album is concerned, if you've got an album that is 50 with a bullet, I would continue to have the act out there on the road touring as much as possible as that is the most important aspect of building sales image for a rock act today. At that point I would then sink in more advertising dollars and I would encourage the record company to put in more promotion, and funnel more merchandising out into the street. If I have that kind of momentum going, any record company in their right mind would be in complete agreement with me."

Market Expansion

Expanding the market means going overseas. "In my mind it is as important to go to Europe once a year as it is to tour stateside. But for the initial three to four years, no act will make money over there because your costs are so high that it is virtually impossible to make any money. It often depends on the size of your production. If you have a record company that believes in the artist, you can often encourage them to give you the proper tour support you need to go over to those European markets and break the group. This has to be a meticulous, well-timed, well-thought-out, four-month planning process because you should not go into a foreign country where you cannot speak the language and proceed to deal with sound people, technical people and all the other inherent communications walls that arise. The main purpose of all this touring overseas is not to achieve an enormous financial gain while playing live concerts but to maintain your record sales worldwide. Once achieving success overseas, you can use that success as a ping-pong to bolster stateside sales by having the prestige and status of being a worldwide attraction."

Just when things seem to be going well, it often happens that one member of the group will try to make a go of it as a solo act. A manager has to deal with this type of problem, and Mattola believes his job would be to "spend countless hours trying to keep the thing together. If the soloist has been the mainstay of the group and all efforts to keep the group together are unsuccessful, then all you can do is use all the promotional efforts you have previously done for the group to provide a solid advertising and merchandising foundation for the soloist. He must be made very identifiable. If the member that leaves the group is that important then what usually happens is that the group crumbles and falls apart. Naturally we would try to get someone to replace the one leaving, but musically and creatively, it is more difficult than outwardly apparent. After I have explored all possible avenues to make the remaining group work, and if my efforts were unsuccessful in reviving the group, I would then have to evaluate the situation from a business viewpoint to see where the problem and its solutions, if any, would lead me."

Remaining No. 1

Perhaps the most difficult chore for any manager is keeping a top act at the top. "That again involves the creative process. The artist you represent must be capable of longevity in the number one position or in the top ten. As long as the artist can continually turn out fine material in albums and really put out in live concerts, the way you, as a manager, expect them to, then you can pick and choose the product to be released very carefully, giving the public just enough, never getting into an oversaturation position, and always maintaining credibility with your audience. Instead of touring twice a year, you may want to tour only once a year. This keeps your audience very interested in the group and when another record is released, the audience is very eager to buy the album or will be very eager to buy concert tickets. The main point is to stay as far away from oversaturation as possible. As a manager, you have to learn to release just the right amount of product."

Despite all the external catalysts that help to sustain a group, longevity planning begins with the manager. "I try to plan two to three years ahead all the time, while taking each day as a separate entity, using that day to change or modify a long-range plan to make it more interesting, more successful. I intend to do my best to stay right around the top but it is really important to me how I conduct business and how I formulate personal attitudes regarding my artists and my business."

Levinson To Relocate

NEW YORK — Peter Levinson Communications will relocate its offices to 505 Park Avenue, effective May 31.

Four Star Music Case Pending

began leasing space in the building.

On March 3, 1977 a Chancery Court order stated that the First American Bank was entitled to physical possession of the missing catalog as collateral for default on the loans.

Later that month, on March 29, in a move which both Johnson's attorney G. Battle Claiborne and court receiver Deutscher agree was a strategy to forestall First American's possession of the catalog, Four Star Music, Inc. filed a voluntary Chapter XI bankruptcy in the federal bankruptcy court.

One the same day, March 29, Johnson was held in contempt of Chancery Court for failure to appear in court and failure to obey a court order to restrain him from moving the catalog files and tapes. Chivers was also held in contempt for failure to appear.

On April 1, Johnson, who was still occupying and living in the business offices of Four Star Music on the fifth and sixth floors of the Four Star building, was ordered to vacate both floors of the building. Johnson, who was to have been paying rent on that space since Signer purchased the building, had claimed that the rent had not been determined and had not paid any rent.

In obtaining the order, Signer stated that Johnson's continued occupancy had made it impossible for him to lease adequate space in the building to meet his monthly mortgage installment of $15,021.61 due April 1.

Over a period of time Signer had obtained several court orders restricting Johnson's space in the building and limiting the hours he could be in the building. On April 1, Signer, a sheriff and Fulton Jr. arrived to physically evict Johnson from the building, but the Chapter XI bankruptcy froze the eviction attempt. Johnson now says there is a consent ruling that he can occupy the sixth floor until June 5, but that he must be out of the building each evening by 7 p.m.

On April 6, 1977 bankruptcy judge Ruth Kinnard appointed Irwin Deutscher as receiver to determine Four Star's assets and ownership. Deutscher immediately commenced a search for the missing catalog. Deutscher's agent located the catalog files and tapes in a warehouse in Atlanta, and on April 15 his agent reported to the court that "the catalog is now in our custody and has been stored in a guarded warehouse."

Shortly thereafter Deutscher's attorney stated in a letter to the bank's attorney his opinion that the Chancery Court case cannot proceed until Deutscher determines who owns the catalog. The bank's attorney Bailey recently said that the bankruptcy "stays any action on the counterclaims. There isn't much we can do." He added, however, that "the mortgage on the building is not affected by the bankruptcy."

On April 29, Four Star attorney Claiborne filed a "Statement of Affairs for a Bankrupt engaged in Business" revealing an astonishing list of hundreds of creditors in the music business, particularly in the Nashville music business.

Current Status

Where do things stand now? According to the bank's attorney Bailey, the Chancery Court claims and counterclaims regarding conspiracy are at a standstill. Receiver Deutscher is collecting money owed the catalog and hopes the court will let him run the company. Hofer feels he still has an agreement to administer the catalog. Pippin Way has filed an action petitioning the bankruptcy court to release the catalog from the receiver and turn it over to them. Johnson's attorney, Bart Durham, says Johnson has an "informal understanding" with the bank that "the catalog could be repurchased if we could get the money."

Meanwhile Johnson remains in limbo — neither further from or closer to protecting his catalog than he was the day the bank foreclosed. "It's like being trapped in a maze," he says, "there are so many ways that seem to be right to get out, but a lot of them are blind alleys."

Outdoor Concerts

Dr. Pepper, the soft drink manufacturer, has been the focus of widespread speculation as the Festival's new sponsor. The Parks spokesman would not discount the speculation, commenting, "Dr. Pepper might well be one of the sponsors being considered."

Schaefer Beer, the Festival's previous sponsor, dropped its sponsorship earlier this year because it "was no longer consistent with the company's marketing objectives," according to Allan Schuster, brand manager for Schaefer.

Political pressure from community groups who opposed the festival because of the noise, crowds and alleged environmental erosion, also influenced Schaefer's decision, Schuster acknowledged.

Ron Delsner, who has promoted the festival in the past and is involved in the current negotiations, declined to comment, except to say, "It's been a long fight here."

STATION BREAKS

operations and program manager of KSDS-FM, San Diego.

The new MD at KGA, Spokane, is Bob Sargent. Former MD Mike Monroe has remained with the station in a sales capacity.

Charlie Kendall is no longer the MD at KZEW, Dallas. Harriet Sutton, Kendall's assistant, is the acting MD until a replacement is found.

Scott Dunn and Rick McGee are switching air shifts at KPIK-FM, Colorado Springs. Dunn is doing the night shift while McGee is now doing the midday slot.

Jim Dooley is the new 3-6 pm air personality at KEEL, Shreveport.

Dave Cooper is the new weekend man and researcher at KDWB, Minneapolis. Cooper comes from KSTP, also Minneapolis, and replaces Brian Phoenix, who goes to WTIC, Hartford.

recital at Michigan's prestigious Cranberg School in Bloomfield Hills, just outside Detroit, where the Performing Arts Dance Class was to perform a modern dance ballet to the group's "Fool's Overture" . . . Though the outdoor concert season is upon us, local promoters Wolf & Rissmiller say most rock groups would rather do their gigs inside, "because in the long run they can make more money." Outdoor shows require more security guards, police, ticket sellers and collectors and generally more time to set up, not to mention the sound and acoustic problems because of the distance between the stage and the audience. But hale and hearty outdoor types needn't worry. "We'll still do a lot of outdoor shows this summer," Wolf noted. "The fans love them."

TOURING TIDBITS — With a new LP and highly rated TV special just behind him, Paul Anka will head to Japan for a concert tour that begins June 17 and ends July 2 . . . Las Vegas' Aladdin Theatre will celebrate its first anniversary this July with still more additions to its impressive list of concert attractions. Joan Baez, no longer "too controversial" for The Strip, will be on stage July 16. Leo Sayer and Melissa Manchester will share the bill on July 19, but a true test of tolerance will come on June 10, when The Tubes appear with Flash Cadillac and the Continental Kids. A special 2 a.m. after hours show that same night will feature Chick Corea's Return to Forever with Stanley Clark. Other additions include: The J. Geils Band and The Hollies on July 4, a two-day C&W show July 9&10 featuring Conway Twitty and Loretta Lynn and a country-rock show Aug. 3 with Jimmy Buffett and Emmylou Harris . . . A May 27 appearance in Indianapolis kicked off a summer touring schedule for the Climax Blues Band with mid-country dates continuing through June . . . Australia's Little River Band began their second North American tour May 25 in Spokane with 39 more dates to follow including a June 7 date at the Santa Monica Civic . . . Also scheduled for a SM Civic date on June 11 is Roy Ayers' Ubiguity appearing with Lonnie Liston Smith & The Cosmic Echoes . . . Elvin Bishop's former lead vocalist Mickey Thomas will "strut his own stuff" at a two-night stand June 27 & 28 at L.A.'s Roxy . . . Andy Adams and Egg Cream will begin a major city tour June 6 that should take them to 15 major market stops . . . Bad Company's plane broke down en route to a recent concert in El Paso, but even though they arrived two hours late for their gig, the undaunted quartet played a full show for the patiently assembled that included three encores and living proof that they "live for the music."*

WELCOME BACK DOOR MAN — When founding member and keyboard man Ray Manzarek left the Doors at the turn of the decade, his two solo projects met with a generally cool reception but attracted a small cult following that encouraged him to put together a new band. "There was music I wanted to make," Ray told us on a recent visit to the office, "and I was tired of doing it myself and hiring a bunch of studio musicians because it wasn't the same. Making music should be a communal act, people coming together for the common purpose of creating music and joy. We're the only animals that can make music and in doing so we worship God with the highest tribute." But it took Ray two years to find the right combination that became Nite City, because his standards included not just competence but also an attractive appearance. "I wasn't going to get a bunch of bozos just because they could play," he proclaimed. The central theme in his music and the philosophy of the band is one of unity, but the message in the music is never a sermon. "People don't want to be preached to," Ray maintains. "People want to see examples. We're not trying to be exploitative or cash in any kind of fad. We just want people to join us in a little trip together, to show them what we believe, and if they want to join us, that's solid." Nite City has been on a cross-country tour the last couple of months, getting their chops down and making new friends, and if front-man Ray Manzarek has anything to say about it, the band will be around for awhile. As he says, "It's so much fun to make music, I really wouldn't want to do anything else."*

STUDIO SOUNDINGS — The 100 piece Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra was on hand Tuesday at the A&M soundstage to join Richard and Karen Carpenter at work on their forthcoming LP. Peter Knight, who orchestrated the Moody Blues' "Days of Future Past," was flown in from London to conduct the 50-throat Gregg Smith Chorale, and to assume production responsibilities for the lavish project which will include Karen's interpretation of "Don't Cry For Me Argentina," and which should be completed for August release . . . Fabian's first record in 16 years was showcased that same day (May 24) at Dillon's in Westwood where the assembled heard both sides of the single due for a June 17 release by Cream Records . . . Jefferson Starship goes back into Wally Heider's SF studio in a couple of weeks to begin their fourth album, scheduled for an August release, with a European and U.S. tour to follow . . . RSO's Smokie has been at the Whitney Studios working on second LP, though no release date has yet been set . . . The "Arkansas" that used to follow Black Oak is now passe, but founding members Jim Dandy Mangrum and "Little Jimmy" Henderson remain at the core of the revamped band, which is finishing an upcoming LP in Macon, Ga. . . . The shrink wrap is all that remains to finish Elvin Bishop's double-live "Raisin' Hell," due for June release . . . Tim Weisberg dropped by the Record Plant to add flute overdubs for the Inner Circle Band's second LP, where a notable substance was absent from even the long end of ten-hour-plus sessions. Most reggae bands admit to a near-holy allegiance to the hemp plant, but when someone noticed the lack of the tell-tale odor, manager Lou Bramy remarked, "This group is here to work, not to get high — except on the charts."*

FRESH AIR — There's a new breeze blowing that will have you charmed and fascinated when it drifts your way. It's coming from a sprightly and talented lass named Cathy Chamberlain, who laughingly refers to herself as "another aging hippie," although the only vague resemblance to those bygone days is the flower that you'll always find in her hair. While in town for her appearance at the Roxy, Cathy talked about her musical style — a marriage of rock and rag-time jazz that she is fond of labeling "rag 'n roll." But it was an interesting chain of seemingly unrelated events that led her to this point — a childhood in Seattle, a stint with a touring stage company performing "Hair," a few years at a Mo. college where she studied opera, and an association with a Coconut Grove band in 1970 known as "Bacon, Lettuce & Tomato." It wasn't such an unlikely name considering that Blood Sweat & Tears was also big in those days, but Cathy left Florida for New York hoping to get together an acoustic jazz combo. But she also found New York City to be a great source of creative energy. "The daily struggle just to survive, and the wealth of raw material there made it an exciting place to be," she says. It was there where she met producer Joel Dorn who signed her last summer and got her debut album out a few weeks ago. "Even though I've been doing it professionally for years," Cathy volunteered, "it always just a lark before. Now it might even pay my rent in New York City." Even at Manhattan prices, that's probably a good bet.*

AFE Announces New Distributors

NEW YORK — Audiofidelity Enterprises has made several recent distributor changes. Malverne Distributors will now handle the company's Image, Ashtree and Hidden Sign labels in the New York, New Jersey and New England areas. All AFE lines will now be distributed by Supreme in the Cincinnati area, and by All South in the New Orleans market.

Summer Sales

A&M will also resurrect its "Holiday Giveaway" campaign this summer. Label officials expect retailers to be able to devote more time and energy to the displays than they could during the Christmas rush.

Summer Holidays

WEA will focus on the inherent promotional opportunities of summer festivities: Father's Day, July 4th, Memorial Day, Labor Day, Graduation Day. Droz said firecracker displays in the stores on July 4th is just one example of those obvious tie-ins.

Berry Gordy Given Award

The celebration was attended by a long list of notables from all facets of the entertainment industry. Songstress Natalie Cole, Councilman David Cunningham of Los Angeles, actor/singer Rosey Grier, actors Billy Dee Williams, Georg Stanford Brown, Raymond St. Jacques, and Tony King; singers Johnny Bristol, Marvin Gaye, Flo Jenkins and various Motown executives among others were present to give their best wishes to the Commodores.

Jimmy's Steps Up TV And Radio Ad Pace

the network's New York affiliate noted that they had been advertising heavily for a few weeks before that. "I've only been aware of them for the past couple of months; and they have been doing some significant advertising."

The story was the same at area radio stations. On WBLS-FM, which primarily programs R&B music, Jimmy's has been advertising more heavily than any of its competitors, and its ads almost always include lowball prices. "They've indicated that they want to spend as much as I'll take," remarked a station spokesman.

On WPLJ-FM and Long Island's WLIR-FM, likewise, Jimmy's ad buys outrun its competitors' by a considerable margin. Sam Goody and Korvettes are holding their own with Jimmy's on WNEW-FM, but the latter retailer only began advertising on the station a few weeks ago. "I imagine if we produce for them, they'll advertise on a weekly basis," noted a source at the station.

Since Jimmy's discontinued advertising in the New York Times at the beginning of March, it has markedly increased its visibility in other area newspapers. In Long Island's Newsday, for instance, Jimmy's is now running ads two or three times a week, as compared with once a week a few months ago. "It seems as if, as they open more units, they advertise more heavily," commented a Newsday spokesman. He also pointed out that, at its present rate, Jimmy's will buy 100,000 lines of space in the newspaper this year (14 lines comprise one inch).

A source at the New York Daily News, the largest newspaper in New York, stated that about two months ago Jimmy's increased its ad placements from two to three full pages per week. While Jimmy's doesn't currently advertise with the New York Post (New York City's third major daily), the retailer is reportedly discussing possible ad placements with that publication as well.

Spectacolor Blitz

Aside from conventional advertising media, Jimmy's is running four different spots with Spectacolor, the firm which operates the new, computerized billboard above Times Square. Two of the ads, utilizing the slogan "Jimmy's Is Coming Closer To You," simply announce the chain's new openings in New Jersey, Westchester County and Long Island. The other two, which together run twice as frequently as the other pair, advertise Teddy Pendergrass's new album on Philadelphia International Records and the live Beatles album on Capitol.

The 15-second Beatles ads tagged to Jimmy's have been running six times every 24 minutes since April, while the Pendergrass spots are visible twice in each 24-minute period.

A spokesman for Capitol stated that the idea for the Beatles spot had come from Jimmy's, not from Capitol. However, he declined to specify who had paid for these ads or for television ads that have been promoting Tavares' latest album at Jimmy's for $2.99.

Several sources suggested that Jimmy's is spending its own money on many of its recent ads, especially those that include very low prices. On the other hand, record companies claim that advertising allowances are in no way related to particular retailers' pricing policies.

Richard Butler, operations manager of Sutton Distributors, which owns Jimmy's, asserted that the vast increase in the chain's advertising was partly "generated due to the fact that we opened so many stores. Any time you add 18 stores in a span of five months, your advertising to support those locations has to dramatically increase."

Butler denied speculation that Jimmy's has invested a larger share of its own money, relative to sales, on advertising. "We haven't changed the direction of where our advertising bucks are coming from. We're following the same advertising policy that we followed when we had 15 stores."

Other Retailers Comment

Barry Gordy, vice-president of Sam Goody, Inc., which has 17 units in the New York metropolitan area, stated that Jimmy's advertising campaign hasn't noticeably affected his company's sales. "Their results may be positive for them, but not necessarily negative for us. They could be attracting people who haven't been buying records, some of our customers or some of Korvettes' customers. And when we run an ad, we attract some of Jimmy's and Korvette's customers as well as our own customers."

Similarly, Elliot Gorlin, advertising manager for El Roy Enterprises, supplier of the local TSS/Record World chain, said that Jimmy's ad blitz was no cause for concern. Record World advertises "six or eight" titles every week in Newsday for $2.99 "to meet the competition," he said, and "there are no plans at present to increase our lineage, because we feel it would be worthless. We're not after that type of customer (who shops at Jimmy's). We're a catalog store; we base our business on service and having something in stock, and we do advertise."

To Ben Karol, principal of the six-unit King Karol chain in Manhattan, Jimmy's recent advertising strategy is just one more example of what he saw as the dealer's unsound business practices. "Now, if I can go by what the major record companies say — and they have no reason to deceive us — Jimmy's pays the same price for goods that we do. And we all know what the cost of overhead in this area is, and we know that if you buy records for $3.84, you can't sell them for $3.99.

"Unless the whole industry is ignorant, and he's the only one that's intelligent and knowledgeable, I think he'll fall flat on his face all by himself, even without anyone helping him."

Law Proposed

Michael R. Cono, president of All-Record Distributors, which operates Long Island's Music Warehouse chain, wasn't as optimistic as Karol about the prospects for higher retail prices in the New York area. He expressed a general concern about the long-range effects of lowballing, although he declined to single out Jimmy's. Selling below cost, Cono declared, "is unfair pricing, and it's obviously designed to eliminate competition. You don't sell something at a loss unless that's your intention."

Informed of this comment, Butler declared, "We have no desire or intention to drive anybody out of business. We're just interested in a share of the market."

Cono is currently urging other area retailers to write to their state legislators, asking them to propose a law that would set a minimum profit-above-cost level for all retail sales. Such a law is already in effect in California, but Cono admitted that the chances of its passage in New York don't look good at the moment.

Surprisingly, Cono said he felt that Jimmy's would support action in favor of such a measure. "If a law like this goes through, he'll be able to sell records (at a higher price) and not worry about other people doing what he's been doing."

However, Butler declined to take a position on the issue. "In any law, there's so many loopholes written into the thing. So before I could comment on that, I'd have to take a look at what they're talking about."

Biddu Named Songwriter Of Year In Ivor Novello Awards

LONDON -- The Performing Right Society Ivor Novello Award statuettes for 1976/77 were presented at a Grosvenor House Hotel luncheon on May 12 by John Inman, BBC TV's 'Personality of the Year."

Recipients were Biddu (Songwriter of the Year); Sir Adrian Boult CH (for Outstanding Services to British Music); Tony Hiller, Martin Lee, Lee Sheridan and Tony Hiller Music (for Most Performed British Work — "Save Your Kisses For Me") and in the same category Elton John, Bernie Taupin and Big Pig Music received Certificates of Honor for "Don't Go Breaking My Heart." The Hiller Team and Pye Records won the Best Selling British Record category with "Save Your Kisses For Me," and the Elton John team and Rocket Records received Certificates of Honor in this category too.

John Miles and Velvet Music/RAK Publishing won the Best Middle of the Road Song section with "Music" and honor certificates went to Tim Rice, Andrew Lloyd Webber and Evita Music for "Don't Cry For Me, Argentina" and to Dave Townsend for "Miss You Nights." The Elton John team won the Best Pop Song category with "Don't Go Breaking My Heart" with honor certificates going to Benny Gallagher, Graham Lyle and Rondor Music (London) for "Heart On My Sleeve" and to Russell Stone and Tin Lid Music for "We Do It."

Best Theme from Radio or TV production award went to John McCabe and Novello & Co. for "Sam" with honor certificates to Dennis Farnon and Standard Music for "Bouquet Of Barbed Wire" and to Harry South and Sparta Florida Music for "The Sweeney." Certificates of Honor in the Best British Musical category were awarded to Nick and Tony Bicat and Riderwood for "Teeth 'n' Smiles" and to Guy Woolfenden and Trevor Nunn for "The Comedy Of Errors."

The Tony Hiller team won the International Hit of the Year with "Save Your Kisses For Me" (the 1976 Eurovision Song Contest winner) with honor certificates going to the Elton John team for "Don't Go Breaking My Heart" and to Barry, Maurice and Robin Gibb and Abigail Music (London) for "You Should Be Dancing." The Best Instrumental Work statuette was awarded to Biddu and Subiddu Music for "Rain Forest" with honor certificates for Elton John, Bernie Taupin and Big Pig Music for "Theme From A Non-Existent TV Series" and for Harry South and Sparta Florida Music for "The Sweeney." Special awards went to Monty Norman for the James Bond theme and to Led Zeppelin for their contribution to British music.

The Ivor Novello Awards were founded and are now administered by the Songwriter Guild of Great Britain, and are sponsored by the PRS.

France Wins 1977 Eurovision Match

LONDON — France won this year's Eurovision Song Contest at the Wembley Conference Center on May 7 with "L'Oiseau Et L'Enfant" (The Bird And The Child) sung by Marie Myriam. The song was composed by Jean-Paul Cara (music) and Joe Gracy (lyrics), and has been released here as a single by Polydor with the French version on one side and the English one on the flip.

Eighteen countries participated in this year's Eurovision tourney, which was watched and heard by an estimated 500 million TV and radio audience in 30 countries through the BBC hookup with other members of the European Broadcasting Union. The contest was postponed from its original date in March on account of an industrial dispute involving BBC TV outside broadcast cameramen.

"L'Oiseau Et L'Enfant" scored 136 marks from the 18 judging panels with 11 members each viewing from each of the participating countries' capitals. Second was the UK entry "Rock Bottom" sung by Lynsey de Paul and Mike Moran with 122 points, and third was Ireland with "It's Nice To Be In Love Again" sung by the Swarbriggs, which scored 119 points.

ABC Sets New Dot, Blue Thumb Licensing Pact

LOS ANGELES — ABC Records International Division has announced the transfer of manufacturing distribution rights for the Dot and Blue Thumb catalogs in two territories of the world.

In Japan, the ABC/Blue Thumb catalog is now being distributed by Nippon Columbia, Ltd., who also distribute the other ABC-controlled labels in that territory.

In Venezuela and Columbia, the Dot and Paramount labels will now be distributed by Fabrica Venezolana de Discos C.A., ABC licensee in those territories.

Anthem Records Formed

TORONTO — Anthem Records is the name of the new Canadian independent label owned and operated by Vic Wilson and Ray Daniels, partners in the management firm SRO. In a pact recently signed between Mercury Records Inc. and Anthem, rock trio Rush is now exclusively signed to Anthem in Canada and worldwide on Mercury, in addition to Max Webster, who recently debuted on the Mercury label in the U.S. and on Taurus Records, which is affiliated with SRO in Canada.

Muntz Canada Ltd. Is Placed In Receivership

ONTARIO — Muntz Canada Ltd., a major retailer of home and auto sound equipment and records and tapes, has been placed in receivership under terms of various debentures by its bankers.

Dunwoody Ltd. has been appointed receiver and has taken possession of the assets of the Burlington-based company roughly estimated to be worth $4 million.

A spokesman for Dunwoody indicated that the 150 stores nationally are still open for business, although a freeze on outgoing shipments has been in effect since April 19 when the court order took effect.

Outgoing shipments resumed April 25 and an announcement of new financing is expected from Dunwoody within the next eight to twelve weeks.

RAWLS GOES GOLD IN CANADA — Following a concert in Toronto, Lou Rawls was presented with a gold record for his single "You'll Never Find Another Love" by Jack Robertson, vice president of CBS Records Canada. The plaque was the company's 11th Gold one for the year.

U.A., King Renew Pact

LOS ANGELES — The King Record Co., Ltd. and United Artists Music and Records Group, Inc. announced the signing of a licensing agreement for King Records to represent the entire United Artists record catalog in Japan commencing on July 1, 1977.

Previously, only a portion of the UA catalog had been distributed in Japan by King Records. Toshiba-EMI had represented another portion consisting primarily of the Liberty, Blue Note and World Pacific labels.

Sex Pistols On Virgin

LONDON — The Sex Pistols have signed a two-year recording deal with Virgin Records. The Pistols are receiving a reported 45,000 pound advance. The three album-contract is for the UK only. In addition, they have also signed a two-year recording contract with Berkeley Records of France, receiving a reported 26,000 pound advance. The three-album contract is for France and Switzerland only.

Kulin Elected To CRIA Presidency

MONTREAL — United Artists president Stan Kulin is the newly elected president of the Canadian Recording Industry Association, replacing Terry Lynd, president of CBS Records Canada, Ltd.

The election took place at Quatre Saisons in Montreal, and other members elected to CRIA are Tim Harrold, president, Polydor Records, to the post of vice-president; Ed Preston, general manager, RCA Records, to the post of treasurer; and Terry Lynd, who steps down to the post of past president elect.

Where In The World . . .

Australia's rock group Sherbet will embark upon a national tour on Friday, May 27, throughout Australia in support of the soon-to-be-released "Photoplay" album.

Blondie, the New York-based band featuring singer Deborah Harry, will make its debut in Great Britain May 22-31 in a concert tour.

Olivia Newton-John returns to England this month to film her own hour-long special for the BBC. The program, slated to air in September, will feature selections from her upcoming MCA Records album, "Makin' A Good Thing Better," which will be released this June. While in England, she will join Elton John, Leo Sayer and the English comedians Ronnie Corbet and Ronnie Barker ("The Two Ronnies" to Anglo audiences) in celebrating Queen Elizabeth II's 25th year on the throne when the clan gathers to tape the BBC-TV "Silver Jubilee" special on the grounds of Windsor Castle.

Brenda Lee is currently on a four-week tour of Japan.

Rush are on a tour of Europe and the UK which includes a date at Odeon Hammersmith Theatre in London. Also on the schedule are concerts in Sweden, Holland and Germany.

Jack Jones, currently in the midst of an eight-week concert tour of Great Britain, has been signed by English producer-director Peter Walker to star in his Gothic horror film, "The Sixth Gate of Hell," currently filming in London.

Harry Chapin will be appearing June 7 in Calgary, Alberta at the Jubilee Auditorium; June 8 in Regina, Saskatchewan at the Regina Center for the Arts; and June 9 in Winnipeg, Manitoba at the Winnipeg Convention Center.

Marilyn McCoo & Billy Davis, Jr. are set to perform in the 1977 Tokyo Music Festival, which opens in the capital city on June 19. The duo are also scheduled to make their first major concert appearances in Japan, two dates in Tokyo, and another in Osaka.

EAGLES AND OTHER FRIENDLY BIRDS — *The Eagles just completed a British concert tour playing at Wembly, Glasgow and Stafford. Five Eagles albums are currently on the British album charts. WEA threw an after-concert party for the Eagles and among the guests were Elton John, Kiki Dee, Pete Townsend, Lynsey de Paul, John Entwistle, Chris Hillman and members of Queen and Status Quo. The Eagles were presented with a silver and gold disc for UK sales of both "Hotel California" and "Their Greatest Hits." Pictured, left photo, at the backstage presentation are (l-r): Don Felder, Joe Walsh, Randy Meisner, John Fruin (managing director of WEA UK), Don Henley and Glen Frey. As the Eagles arrived at Prestwick airport (center photo) they were piped from the plane onto the highland tarmac. ...Over To Metrodisc In Canada

TORONTO — Jack Vermeer, vice-president of marketing for Quality Records Ltd., has announced the shift of its branch distribution operation to the newly formed Metrodisc Distributors.

The former Quality branch offices and warehouses in Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg will now function under the Metrodisc banner. Vermeer said that this pragmatic move has been made to facilitate the increasing demand by a number of independent labels, other than those licensed by Quality, seeking both regional and national distribution in Canadian markets.

The Taylor, Pearson & Carson Vancouver sales office and Calgary office and warehouse will continue to form the western arm of the distribution network, and both TPC and Metrodisc shall honor Quality's existing sales and promotion policies.

Argentinian News

BUENOS AIRES — Singer and composer Rabito has ended his association with the EMI label and will probably produce his recordings independently in the future, with local distribution by a label not yet disclosed. Rabito has been a top seller in the teen market for several years, and his waxings have been successfully released in many other Latin American markets.

Tonodisc, the record company recently acquired by Natallo Garber and now entering the pop singles field, is releasing the first single by Daniel Solanas, with A&R direction by Jorge Lopez Ruiz. In spite of the acute restriction on radio play for teen music, the label is confident about the future of this artist, who has been appearing in the interior of the country and also was contracted by Brazilian TV Globo some months ago.

RCA offered a cocktail party at the Alvear celebrating the arrival of Italian singer Nicola di Bari, who offered shows at the same hotel, on stage, and in cities of the interior. Di Bari also taped TV programs, and his latest recordings are selling very well, both in the singles and LP charts.

Phonogram's Valeria Lynch, one of the most promising names in the local scene, premiered this week at the Pigalle music hall with Antonio Gasalla. The diskery has released her new single and has scheduled an LP for July. Valeria sings in English and Spanish, which makes her attractive for the international market.

Martin Meyer Productions has moved to a new address: it is now located on Italia 1818, (1640) Martinez, Provincia de Buenos Aires. Its president is Martin Mayer.

'Evita' Musical Planned

LONDON — Robert Stigwood has set Harold Prince to stage and direct a West End London musical production of the MCA album "Evita" for the spring of 1978. Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Weber wrote and produced "Evita," which was inspired by the life of Eva Peron.

BSR Acquires Musimart

MONTREAL — Musimart Limited, importers and Canadian record distributors, has recently been acquired by BSR of England along with three sister companies in the Musimart group. George Erlick, founder of Musimart remains as president. Jack Inhaber will continue to manage the record sales organization. All administrative and sales personnel will be retained and no policy changes are contemplated.

Reports From France

Barclay Records this month launched a new label called EGG Music specializing in underground music. Eddie Barclay views the experience as an important step to welcome to qualitative talents "left in the shadows" because they are not easy to promote. An important budget will be given out to secure the success of the operation.

Michel Colombier will conduct the European premiere performance of "Wings," his pop cantata for symphony orchestra, pop group, big band, and classical choir on June 3, 1977. The lyrics are by the American songwriter-composer Paul Williams. The performance, which will be given in the Congresgebouw in The Hague, is part of the 30th Annual Festival of Holland. Other artists participating in the performing arts celebration include: pianist Vladimir Ashkenazy, singer Grace Bumbry and the Concertgebouw Orchestra of Amsterdam with members of the Rainbow train as soloist. Mike Oldfield's Tubular Bells will be performing on the same program. Colombier is a noted French composer, arranger and musician who has composed music scores for over 23 films and TV series produced in France and the United States. Columbier has recorded "Wings" for A&M Records with soloists Herb Alpert, Paul Williams, Lani Hall and Bill Medley.

Jarreau Awarded German Grammy

NEW YORK — Once again, Al Jarreau has won the highest award from the German Academy of Music. This year's Grammy is for "Best International Artist, 1977." Last year, he won top honors as "Best New International Pop Vocalist, 1976."

Diamond Goes Platinum

NEW ZEALAND — Neil Diamond's new live CBS album "Love At The Greek" became the first record in New Zealand to ship platinum. (In New Zealand a platinum disc is awarded for sales exceeding 15,000 units — a gold disc is 6,000 units).

Miles, 'Music' Honored

LONDON — John Miles has just been awarded England's prestigious Ivor Novello Songwriter Award for "Music" as "Best MOR Record of 1977" by The Performing Right Society of Great Britain. Produced by Alan Parsons, "Music" was featured on John Miles' debut LP "Rebel" (London).

June Is Crusaders, ELO Month

ABC Schedules June As 'Crusaders Month'

LOS ANGELES — ABC Records has scheduled May 25 through June 30 as "Crusaders Month." The campaign will coincide with the release of the group's new album, "Free As The Wind," which will be out at the end of May. The company will place extensive trade and consumer print ads to promote the Crusaders, the group's catalog, the new album and the new single, "Feel It."

The program also will feature poster frames displayed in major cities, streamers, wind chimes, T-shirts and a celebration at New York's Palladium May 27.

UA Designates June 'ELO Catalog Month'

LOS ANGELES — United Artists Records has designated June as "ELO Catalog Month" and will initiate a multi-faceted sales campaign designed to service the entire Electric Light Orchestra catalog. A partial list of sales aids includes discounts at the retail level, a new poster featuring each of the group's LPs, T-shirts, mobiles and stand-ups from the "Face The Music" and "A New World Record" albums.

Jimmy's Music World Heads To Washington And Boston

market, although none seemed excessively alarmed. For example, a spokesman for the four-unit Lechmere general merchandise chain conceded that Jimmy's tactics might hurt his company's record business. However, to noted, "if it comes to where it's cutting into our business, sure, we'll match them (in price). $3.68 is a lowball price around here. And if they (Strawberries) run at $2.99 for any length of time, the Coop, Music City, Lechmere and the others will have to do it, too. We'll have to beat them."

Can Jimmy's be beaten? "If they haven't got the catalog," replied the source, "we'll run twice as much as they are at the same price ($2.99), and we'll make it up on our catalog. And one thing about department stores, they have a lot more behind them. A record department in a general merchandise store doesn't have to make money. They can use it as a loss leader, whereas Jimmy's has to make money somewhere."

As an example of how Lechmere can use this advantage, the spokesman cited last Christmas's Wings promotion. While freely admitting that the chain had lost a lot of money on the Wings album itself, which sold thousands of copies in a single week at Lechmere, he pointed out that "what we picked up in addition sales (generated by the loss leader) was fantastic. It was a great week for the whole chain."

Similarly, Linda Stellinger, record buyer for the Harvard Coop, declared that her department, the largest record retailer in Boston, is perfectly willing to meet Strawberries on price as they have in the past. In addition, she noted, the Coop pays out all its profits in the form of rebates on purchases to its members; if the record department has to lower its prices in order to meet competition, the Coop can simply reduce the rebate percentage.

Howard Ring, president of New England Music City, acknowledged that the advent of Jimmy's on the scene would affect business. However, he declined to comment further on possible future developments.

Fate Of Independent Retailers

Howard Steinmetz, city manager for Discount Records' three area stores, believed that the introduction of a $2.99 sale price would cause repercussions in the market. However, he didn't think there was any danger of Jimmy's opening a lot of new Strawberries stores overnight. "I don't know if the area can handle it. I think they'll have their hands full if they pick up Strawberries' present stores."

Regardless of Strawberries' pricing policy, Steinmetz was confident that a large organization like Discount could "go with the flow." On the other hand, he said, "if they want to come in and lowball the price on a vast amount of albums, I'm sure they'll end up chasing out the remainder of the independent retailers around here."

Peter's Records One-Stop agreed, stating that the mom and pop stores in town can't possibly compete with a dealer who's underselling them by two dollars. Already, he said, competitive pressures in the market have taken their toll. Since the first of the year, no less than five small record retailers in Somerville, Roxbury and other areas on Boston's outskirts have closed down, "one by death, one by retirement and three are out of business. And that's probably indirectly the result of Strawberries."

Capitol's Maze Free To Continue Using Name

NEW YORK — A federal court in New York has denied a preliminary injunction which was sought against Capitol Records (Cash Box, March 26) and Capitol's act, Maze, to enjoin them from using the name "Maze."

In a decision handed down April 15, it was held that the plaintiff, a band from Massachusetts allegedly playing the New England club circuit since 1969, but with no record deal, "has failed to demonstrate the requisite hardship or harm that would justify the issuance of a preliminary injunction."

Fleetwood's 'Rumours' Goes Double Platinum

LOS ANGELES — Fleetwood Mac's latest LP, "Rumours," on Warner/Reprise Records, has reached the double platinum mark indicating sales of more than two million.

NITE CITY AT THE WHISKY *— 20th Century recording group Nite City recently made its debut at the Whisky in Los Angeles. Payola Hearings Resume; WOL Execs Testify casting to pirate talent away from legitimate promotors in the Richmond, Va. area." And David Cooper, president of World Wide Attractions, similarly accused Edwards of pirating acts.

Thompson said Edwards denied at the time that he had used his WOL position to unfair advantage. (Edwards subsequently was fired for "gross insubordination and gross misconduct" for engaging in promotional activity after being ordered to stop.)

The question of Edwards using his dj position as leverage in negotiating with acts is, in Thompson's words, "an intangible we have never been able to prove." In monitoring the tapes, Thompson said he found no excessive airplay, although on occasion he was unaware of which acts were being promoted.

Kelsey likewise said he found nothing irregular when he monitored the tapes. Asked about station policy on intros and outros, Kelsey said, "They were being done. We thought they were very hip. In fact, every radio station in the country is still doing it except us." (In May 1976 he ordered the djs to stop doing intros/outros).

AFTRA Contract

WOL's contract with AFTRA holds questions which may enter into the proceedings at a later date. The relevant point concerning "outside engagements" is about to enter arbitration and therefore is off limits for discussion in the FCC hearing. Kelsey represents the station in negotiations, and he confirmed that the outside engagements provision prohibits djs from getting involved in concert promotions. Management's prior consent is needed in order to permit outside work, he said. He did not expect his djs to promote major shows, and he would have withheld his consent if he thought the promotions would interfere with WOL's business, he said.

Hearings continue next week with testimony due from John Doubleday, vice president, radio programs, Sonderling Broadcasting. The dates and locations for hearings after that remain uncertain. (FCC spokesmen continue to be unable to confirm any travel plans.)

Deems Taylor Awards Planned For May 31

NEW YORK — The tenth annual Deems Taylor Awards, presented by ASCAP for outstanding non-fiction books and articles about music and musicians, will be presented during a champagne reception at ASCAP's headquarters.

A WAY WITHOUT WORDS — Capitol Records decided not to waste words in a recent effort to promote the Pousette-Dart Band's new single "Fall On Me." In lieu of the usual promotion man, Capitol sent mime artist Trent Arterberry to WRKO in Boston where he delivered a copy of the single to Carol Singer. Arterberry, a friend of band leader Jon Pousette-Dart, appears on the cover of the group's LP "Amnesia."

MCM And Lifesong Change Distributors In Two Markets

Record Sales. Krug, it was undersood, was in Los Angeles last week meeting with independent manufacturers in an attempt to solicit their business in Denver. Western, one of the top 15 accounts nationally in terms of sales, would in all likelihood use the distribution operation in Denver to feed its own operation.

Reached for comment, John Marmaduke of Western Merchandisers said he was aware of some moves to solicit lines, but had no official comment. Company president Sam Marmaduke was unavailable.

There was discussion that Western Merchandisers might merge with M.S. in Denver. M.S. president Milt Salstone denied these reports.

In Chicago, Lifesong Records took its line from M.S. and gave it to the newly formed Progress Records branch there. Barry Gross, Lifesong vice-president in charge of sales and promotion, confirmed the move effective this week.

Both Gross and Harold Davis, sales manager for Progress and previously in the same position with M.S., downplayed any possible friction as a result of the move. Gross explained, "M.S. still distributes us elsewhere," while Davis added that "there are distributor changes and manufacturer changes constantly."

Progress has also picked up distribution of Cream Records and its newly acquired Hi Records catalog.

Salstone offered "no comment" on the Lifesong move. He did say, however, in his estimation, there was no business problem with the label.

Draper, Warner Bros. vice-president of black music marketing; Ed Pugh, WB national director of black music marketing; Eddie Gilreath, WB regional marketing manager; George Rossi, WEA's New York branch manager; and Peter Stocke, WEA's Philadelphia branch manager.

Another of the seminars focused on country music and was conducted by Rich Lionetti, WEA's vice-president of sales. The panelists included: Mike Stuttle, E/A national marketing director of country music; Stan Byrd, WB national sales and promotion director of country music; Sam Cerami, WB midwest regional director of country sales and promotion; and Bob English, program director of KUCB, Tucson.

A session entitled "Successful Time Management" was directed by Dr. John Van de Water of the UCLA School of Business Management.

Class To Study Industry P.R.

LOS ANGELES — A public relations class, titled, "The Recording Artist: Strategies in Building and Sustaining a Career," is scheduled for the UCLA summer extension program and will be instructed by Ronnie Lippin and Shannon Boyd.

The course will present a comprehensive analysis of public relations and publicity in the recording industry, and will offer a number of industry-related speakers.

Sayer Single Gets Gold

LOS ANGELES — Leo Sayer's single "When I Need You" on Warner Bros. Records was recently certified gold by the RIAA.

EXECUTIVES ON THE MOVE

Hechtman, Jackaway Join BNB — Burl Hechtman has been appointed to the position of manager of BNB Management. Hechtman will additionally be responsible for handling BNB's Paradine Paterson account for concert promotions in Australia and New Zealand, along with Robert Paterson Promotions throughout Europe. Prior to joining BNB, Hechtman was most recently an agent with the William Morris Agency in their music department. Also named at BNB was Neal Jackaway, who was Hechtman's assistant at William Morris.

Retail Chains Report Results

margin.

Undiminished Emphasis On Records

Sears, which opened seven units during the first quarter, is adding a total of 25 stores this year and more than 30 stores in 1978. Most of these units will have music departments, according to a company spokesman.

Construction of new K mart stores has slowed down somewhat. During the first quarter, 28 K marts were opened, compared with 50 K marts during the prior-year period. The company plans to open about 135-140 units in the U.S., Canada and Australia this year, compared with 271 openings last year. A company spokesman stated that all new stores will include record departments. "That's a standard department in our stores."

Penney opened 32 retail stores during the first quarter, including thrift drug stores and overseas units. None of these included record departments. Penney's has made retention of record lines optional in all its stores, and has announced that no stores opened after July 1 will carry them (Cash Box, February 19).

Allied And Dayton Net Up

A mixed picture was presented by first-quarter earnings reports of other major retail chains. Federated Department Stores posted first-quarter income of $25.9 million on sales of $1 billion, down 4.5% from last year's earnings of $27.1 million on revenues of $944 million.

In contrast, Allied Stores Corporation's income rose 25.1% to $8.7 million from $6.9 million last year. Similarly, Dayton Hudson Corporation's net profit jumped 23%, and all ten of its retail operating companies showed improved sales for the period.

ABC incentive program.

"Van" Vanyo, Lieberman Enterprises buying chief, said, "It really has no effect on my buying. We buy what we think we can use and we made our regular returns throughout the year. We didn't hold back anything and we happened to make the 1%."

Sandy Skieg, vice-president-general manager of All Record, a one-stop in Oakland, pointed out discrepancies in ABC procedures. "The sales department want you to take a lot of product, and then another department won't let you return it. That's inconsistent.

"When an album dies, it doesn't matter what the policy is as far as incentive. There may be an incentive to keep the record for an extra 15 or 30 days, but if it's not selling, you have to return it. 100% is more appealing than two or three percent if the record isn't selling."

'Hasn't Changed The Way'

"It hasn't changed the way we are merchandising or the way that we are returning. We're still returning on the same month-to-month basis that we always have," said Steve Marmaduke, Western Merchandising.

A similar attitude was expressed by Ben Karol, co-owner of King Karol in New York. "We don't even know that it exists. We disregard it completely because there isn't near enough incentive for you to worry about."

John Kaplan, executive vice president of Handleman Co., said that he had not taken full advantage of the discount program. "The way they've set it up, it's pretty difficult for a rack jobber to qualify because the very nature of our business pleads more returns. The average rack jobber, unless a company is red hot, cannot come in with that (discounted) number."

However, Don McCabe, vice-president in charge of new release for Portland-based Everybody's, said, "We are totally happy with their program. It is probably the best thing to come along, in terms of the manufacturer helping the retailer, that I've seen in a long time. It has really helped our business."

Dave Marker, an owner/partner in the Music Plus chain in southern California, agrees, "We love the ABC program because we return under 10%. With our operation, we have a very low return so we benefit heavily from an ABC type of program."

Some industry members were very critical of the plan. For example, Jim Schwartz, president of Schwartz Bros. commented, "As far as the ABC incentive program, I personally wouldn't recommend it as a manufacturer because I think it's an incentive not to do business.

"If you have an ultra-strong incentive not to make returns, then you will have an ultra-conservative approach to buying records. In buying ultra-conservatively, you could underbuy tremendously and the artists or a program could suffer extremely from a lack of exposure, even though you may have a good return situation."

Schwartz added that he hasn't allowed the program to affect his dealings with ABC because "we buy, hopefully, to have a small return with anybody we are doing business with because returns do cost us a lot of money."

'Haven 4 Worried'

Mel Goldstein of the 17-store Elroy chain remarked, "We haven't even worried about the 3%. I never cared for the idea. It just didn't apply and we've ignored it completely. If it fell into our pattern, fine."

Another critical reaction came from Barrie Bergman, president of the 71-store Record Bar chain. "We don't agree with the plan. The plan, as we view it, is backwards. They judge the returns based on the big purchases of the first half of the year, but the discount applies to the half of the year that we don't make as large a purchase."

He continued, "They should have set it up on either a quarterly or a yearly basis, but the six-month time period is the most unfair way it could have been done."

"ABC has a ridiculous plan in my opinion," according to Terry Worrell, president of Bromo Distributors and suppliers to the Sound Warehouse chain. "On one hand, they're encouraging you to lower your returns and on the other, they are loading you. The plans are in definite conflict and I don't understand the direction."

Price War Looms In Boston

reported success with a special "bankruptcy reorganization sale" to liquidate merchandise; retailers in New York and Cleveland took advantage of Columbia's buy-in incentives on classical LPs before they are raised to $7.98 list; and Capitol continued heavy co-op advertising on the Beatles and Steve Miller catalogs.

Wallichs Reorganizes

Wallichs Music City in Los Angeles, which recently reorganized under Chapter XI of the federal bankruptcy code, this week promoted an all-label 25%-off-shelf-price sale. Shelf price on catalog product is $5.96, ith a sale price of $4.47, while Top 200 product regularly sells for $4.96. This week, under a bankruptcy reorganization sale, those records were priced at $3.72.

"We're just trying to raise some money for the court, to show them that we can make a profit and pay back our creditors," a Wallichs spokesman said. "We're moving a lot of merchandise. We think we can get ourselves together and come back."

Wallichs, which is now under new management, reported assets of $1.65 million and liabilities of $1.52 million in filing for reorganization March 8. The failure of the company had been blamed on the chain's previous lack of aggressive pricing and merchandising (Cash Box, March 26).

Pushing The Classics

Record Theatre in Cleveland and King Karol in New York were observed this week promoting all Columbia classical LPs for $3.98 and $3.99 respectively, taking advantage of Columbia's special incentives before all Masterworks are raised from $6.98 to $7.98 list on July 5.

While accounts may buy Columbia classics at the $6.98 wholesale price until July 5, the cut-off date for incentives in the buy-in program is June 15. Those incentives include extended dating, additional ad allowances and free goods (Cash Box, May 21).

Mike Kellman, product manager of Masterworks for Columbia, said the idea of extending dating to September 10 was to get accounts to buy early, use co-op money for heavy advertising and once they sell the goods off, come back prior to July 5 and restock.

The Record Theatre ad in the Cleveland Plain Dealer informed the consumer that Masterworks would be going up to $7.98 and advised them to buy while Columbia remains the "best bargain among major full-line classical labels."

Capitol Boosts Catalog

Ads promoting the "Beatles At The Hollywood Bowl" and/or the rest of the Beatles catalog were observed in eight surveyed markets this week, while Capitol also advertised the Steve Miller catalog (and his current relase "Book Of Dreams") and Pink Floyd's "Dark Side Of the Moon" and "Animals" in several surveyed markets.

The live Beatles LP bulleted at #5, while the new Miller LP debuted at #18 with a bullet on this week's Cash Box Top 200 Albums chart.

Prelude Creates Dellwood Label

NEW YORK — A new record label, Dellwood Records, has been formed as a subsidiary of Prelude Records.

The new label, which will be independently distributed, is being formed for the purpose of marketing a broad range of product with special emphasis on albums, according to Stan Hoffman, executive vice-president of Prelude Records.

"There are several artists I've come across who are exciting but who do not fit the image of Prelude Records," said Hoffman. "I feel that a new label with a different marketing approach will allow me to become involved with these acts, thereby giving me the opportunity to expand my horizons insofar as the signing of new acts is concerned."

The first five albums are being prepared for release and will feature Frank Dell, Formula 5, New Ban, Sweet Rush and Boot.

Buddah Plans Release Of Four LPs In June

NEW YORK — The latest album by Michael Henderson, "Going Places," highlights the four albums scheduled for June release by Buddah Records.

Included among the other June release albums are two debut albums, "Addrisi Brothers" by the group of the same name and "Bridge To Cross" by Willie Bridges. In addition, Buddah will release a Sha Na Na retrospective album titled "Sha Na Na Is Here To Stay."

Foreigner Goes Gold

NEW YORK — "Foreigner," the debut album by the group of the same name on Atlantic Records, has been certified gold by the RIAA.

ABC's Losses

Because of this, ABC Records will incur a loss this year substantially greater than last year. For the next year we reaffirm our goal of becoming a viable force in this industry." The record division lost $7.4 million in 1976.

While a first-quarter breakdown of recorded music figures was not available, the company reported that both ABC Records and ABC Record and Tape Sales, the independent distribution and rack jobbing operation, showed "slight" operating losses for the three-month period.

Rule said that like ABC Records, the sales arm may also show a loss for the full 1977 period.

The ABC president concluded that despite the problems in recorded music, which account for roughly 15% of ABC Inc. revenues, the principal operations in TV and radio were stronger than ever and likely to improve further with the coming of the fall television season. That bigger audience gains now will be translated into higher advertising prices at that time was Rule's rationale.

Much of the rest of the annual meeting was taken up by lengthy speeches focusing on issues ranging from the overall corporate lack of disclosure to the fate of newscaster Barbara Walters to the state of board chairman Leonard Goldenson's health.
